Lancaster Farming

VOL. 34 No. 46 | Four Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, September 23, 1989 | 50¢ Per Copy | $12.50 Per Year

For taking measures to protect agriculture's most valuable resource—children, Fred and Nancy Garber won the "Safe Farms for Safe Kids" contest sponsored by a nationwide farm magazine and a national safety group. Marilyn Adams, (center) national chairperson for Farm Safety for "Just Kids," flew from Iowa to make the presentation to the Garbers pictured with their children Ryan, 7; Jeff, 3; and Crystal, 2.

Garber Family Commended For Farm Safety Measures

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) —The Fred Garber family of Lancaster made national news this week for protecting agriculture's most precious resource—children.

While state and local politicians, agricultural officials and the news media assembled for the award ceremony, Garber stressed, "I don't want the meeting to focus on Spring Lawn Farm or the Garbers, I want the focus on safety."

The incentive for making the Garber's farm a safer place for kids actually began three years ago. At that time there were nine children under the age of five who lived on the farm's properties. Garber, alarmed by the many fatalities and injuries to farm kids, resolved, "God forbid that should happen to our children."

Garber and his wife Nancy, who have three children between the ages two to seven, took a closer look at the danger spots on their farm. They locked seeds, herbicides, insecticides, pesticides and other poisons in a building that is off limits to children. The Garbers installed a tank and drainage basin to prevent run off when filling the chemical spreader. They installed a "Slow—Children at Play" sign and painted the word slow in yellow letters along their drive advising drivers to slow down.

Nancy, who noticed that the children often rode their bikes on a barn hill, was concerned that farm traffic could not see the children. A yellow line was painted across the bottom of the hill to warn children that the area is off limits.

Garber, who acquired numerous injuries from farm accidents during his childhood, had read that 50 percent of children's farm fatalities happen from children falling under a tractor. He recalled that he almost lost his son Jeff while trying to pull a truck from the field. Garber's foot had slipped on the clutch and Jeff fell off in front of the tractor. Fortunately, Garber was going backward, but he said, "Except by the grace of God, we would be another statistic."

RCMA's Discontinuation Should Have Little Effect On Milk Prices

BY KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent

FREDERICK, MD—Area dairymen, whose milk checks have begun to reflect the recent dramatic increases in the bellwether Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk price, probably won't even notice the suspension of over-order premiums by the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency (RCMA) in much of New York and Pennsylvania.

With prices on the rise and a tight milk market prompting voluntary premiums, the RCMA decision, announced September 11, should have little to no impact on farm milk prices in the Northeast, according to industry leaders.

"The fact that RCMA iself is not going to operate for the next several months doesn't mean that the premiums are going to disappear," said Robert Dever, assistant general manager of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, which is headquartered in Southampton, Pa.

Dever said two major factors—the continuation of the $1.05 differential by the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board and the region's competitive milk market—make it likely that area dairymen will continue to receive higher prices than the minimums set by the federal order system.

PMMB's $1.05 a hundredweight premium, which is added onto the minimum farm prices it requires Class I handlers to pay, recently was extended through May 1990. It was instituted originally in September 1988 in response to unfavorable conditions resulting from that year's drought.

Although PMMB's jurisdiction is limited to in-state handlers, the $1.05 has become a kind of standard throughout the Northeast. For instance, the Middle Atlantic Cooperative Milk Marketing Agency (MACMMA), RCMA's counterpart in Federal Order 4, has set the same $1.05 over-order premium through May and this boosts prices for dairymen in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and New Jersey, as well as southeastern Pennsylvania. MACMMA's price will not be affected by the RCMA action, Dever said.

The discontinuation does affect dairymen in New York and northern Pennsylvania who ship to independent handlers and those regulated by Federal Order 2. However, most, if not all, of this area's fluid dealers should continue to pay premiums because of the tight market for milk. Even handlers buying Class II milk for cheese production are paying premiums, observers say.

RCMA's difficulties stem in part from this highly competitive market, according to Gregg McAllister, an RCMA spokesman. In recent months, the bargaining agency has met "overwhelming resistance" to its over-order charges from Class I dealers who considered themselves to be at a disadvantage in competing for milk with Class II handlers who didn't pay the RCMA premium, McAllister said. In particular, Class II handlers in the Order 2 milkshed could pay non-RCMA premiums directly to their producers while Class I handlers paid their premiums into a pool that was distributed evenly across the entire RCMA membership in the region. This situation was exacerbated by certain provisions of Order 2 that allow cheese plants unusual latitude in competing for milk,

Wolff, Kroger To Kick-Off Cooperative Month

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Honorable Boyd Wolff, Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture, will preside at the sixth annual Cooperative Month kick-off breakfast, set for September 26 at the Harrisburg Sheraton-West at 8:00 a.m. The Secretary will present a "Cooperative Month Proclamation" by Governor Casey and will give an update on the "Challenges facing Pennsylvania Agriculture".

The breakfast, a traditional component of the Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives (PAFC) annual meeting, provides legislators and the public with an opportunity to recognize the scope of agricultural cooperatives in the Commonwealth.

In addition, Dr. Manfred Kroger, professor of Food Science at The Pennsylvania State University, will address the group on the annual meeting topic of food safety. Dr. Kroger, a recognized figure in the area of food safety, advises numerous associations including the American Council on Science and Health and is a consultant to the International Food Information Council in Washington. A very popular professor at Penn State, he was awarded Penn State's Lindback Award for Outstanding Teaching in 1983.

Although best-known in the agricultural sector, the cooperative business form is applicable to any economic endeavor. Non-agricultural cooperatives include the Associated Press, the FTD

ACRES CORN UPDATE: Corn futures prices improved today and ended the session from unchanged on the deferred July and September options to 1-1/4 cent higher on the December. Price improvement came on buying tied to weather predictions calling for a chance of frost this weekend in the upper midwest. Further support was attributed to rumors that the USSR had purchased 60,000 metric tonnes of U.S. corn gluten meal. Korea purchased 100,000 metric tonnes of corn overnight with Taiwan passing on 31,000 metric tonnes. September expired quietly this afternoon at $2.34-1/2 after trading in a range from $2.30 to $2.39. December settled at $2.28-1/2, up 1-1/4 cent.

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybean futures prices closed higher today from 5-1/4 to 7 cents on buying tied to the latest weather forecasts calling for frost this weekend in the northern parts of the belt. Further bearish weather news came in the form of "Hugo" which is now expected to make landfall by Saturday on the coast of Georgia. This would bring heavy rainfall and possible damage to the immature crop. Gains were held in check by the impending harvest. September expired quietly today at $5.68-1/4 gaining 5-1/4 cents for the day. November closed 7 cents higher at $5.75-1/2 after trading in a range from $5.72 to $5.77.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures prices closed from unchanged to 1-1/2 cents higher this afternoon following a day of featureless trading. Buying was attributed mainly to spillover from

"NO CHARGE" FORAGE TESTING

ACCURATE FORAGE TESTING GIVES YOU A MORE RELIABLE DAIRY FEEDING PROGRAM

1 The analysis begins with a collection of a forage sample from your farm.

Not all testing is the same. The accuracy of your results depends on the thoroughness and professionalism of the people performing the analysis, and the precision of the testing equipment used.

In our Technical Services Laboratory, located in Lancaster, we perform more than 6,500 forage analyses a year for farms like yours, in Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey and Delaware. This service enables you to learn the exact nutrient values of your homegrown forages so that we can work with you to develop your best feeding program.

4. Samples are chemically digested to measure protein levels.

—PENNFIELD DAIRY PROGRAM PLUSES:—

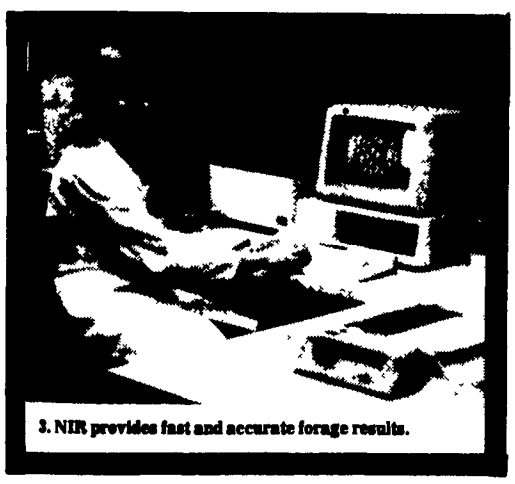
2. A sample is weighed seven times during the procedure to gather data.

+ "NO CHARGE" - CERTIFIED FORAGE TESTING LAB: Pennfield's Forage Testing Lab is certified by the NAHTA (National Alfalfa Hay Testing Assoc.)

+ Professionally formulated dairy feeding programs.

+ Order dept. open 24 hours per day Monday 5 AM through Saturday 5 AM. Answering service on weekends.

5. Acid detergent fiber is another important indication of nutrient content.

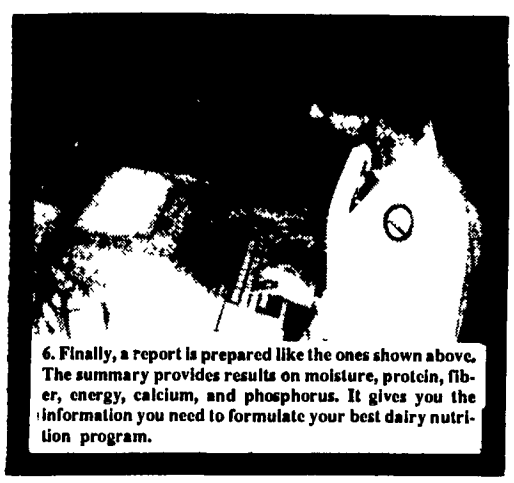


3. NIR provides fast and accurate forage results.

+ Grain exchange program for Corn - Barley - Soybeans

+ Dairy Terms: 2½ % Cash Discount - due 15th of following month.

+ Well trained "Dairy Service Specialists" who can work with you to help solve problems when they occur.



6. Finally, a report is prepared like the ones shown above. The summary provides results on moisture, protein, fiber, energy, calcium, and phosphorus. It gives you the information you need to formulate your best dairy nutrition program.

Take Your Seat, The Performance Is About To Begin.

You'll applaud the performance of Funk's G-Hybrids like G-4543, G-4626 and G-4446 when the curtain falls at harvest time.

A top choice for shelled grain or ear corn in 110 to 120-day maturity areas, G-4543 produces maximum yields even at lower populations. In Delaware hybrid field corn trials, it topped the field with 148.4 bu./A.

G-4626 has it all in a 115 to 120-day maturity hybrid—fast dry-down, outstanding stay-green, superior standability, excellent plant health and exceptional yields. In Delaware trials, G-4626 produced yields up to 200.9 bu./A.

G-4446 delivers superior late season standability, excellent grain quality and high test weights. A multi-purpose, widely adapted hybrid, G-4446 produced a state record 252.4 bu./A. in the 1986 Pa. Five-Acre Corn Club competition.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

SEPT. 18-24, 1989

Woodchucks hibernate.

Sept. 18, 1851, the first issue of The New York Times is published . . Sept 19, 1928, Walt Disney's Mickey Mouse first introduced in Steamboat Willie cartoon . . Herring spawn only once a year, just before the autumnal equinox, Sept. 22 . Average length of days for the week 12 hours 14 minutes . . . Babe Ruth makes his farewell appearance with the New York Yankees, Sept. 24, 1934 . . One of these days is none of these days.

Ask the Old Farmer: When something unusual happened, my grandmother would say, "My goodness, cut a notch in the crane." What did she mean? N. C , Conn.
Whaling boats carried smaller boats which were lowered from wooden davits, known then as cranes. The crews would notch the crane to keep track of the number of whales killed.

Home Hints: Mix salt and vinegar into a paste to clean stained marble Rinse with water

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: This and that. Cloudy and cool, that's the rule. By mid-week, though, expect a change: clear and warm is the new rule of thumb.

Greater New York-New Jersey: Cloudy and cool, just like in New England. Then it's clearing and unseasonably warm. Who wants seasonable anyway?

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Clear and pleasant for the first part of the week Then intermittent rain takes over, locally heavy, but it's warmish

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Showers are heavy in the south, cool temperatures predominate. Then more rain, heavy in the east, then the west.

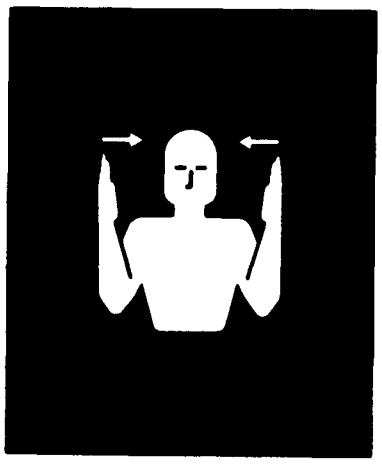
OPINION

Hand Signals For Use In Agriculture

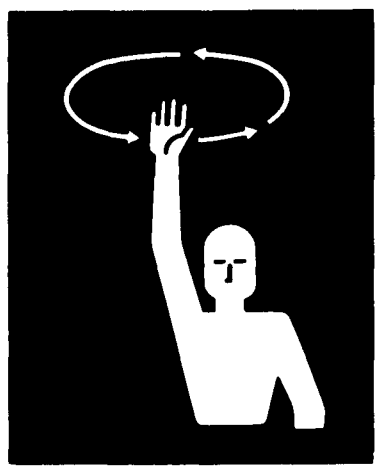
Work around either field or farmstead machinery is apt to be noisy and if more than one worker is involved, risky as well. Communication between workers is essential if confusion and possibly an accident is to be avoided.

Hand signals have been used by the military, construction workers and factory laborers for many years to do work where voice communication is impossible or apt to be misunderstood. Uniformity in signaling is essential when many people must work together doing hazardous jobs.

The hand signals shown here are a combination of the commonly accepted signals from other groups into a system that could be used by all farmers and agricultural workers. They were developed by the Indiana Farm Safety Council, refined by the National Institute for Farm Safety and then adopted in 1972 by the American Society of Agricultural Engineers for use in Agriculture.

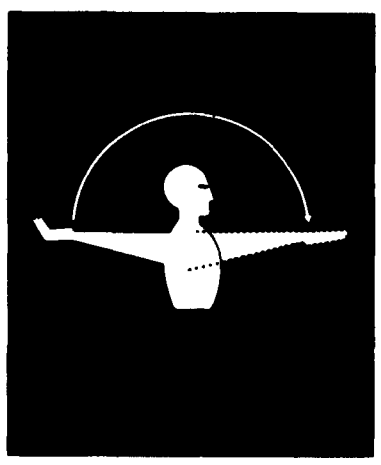


THIS FAR TO GO—Palms at ear level facing head. Move laterally inward to indicate remaining distance to go.



COME TO ME—Arm overhead, palm to the front, rotate in large horizontal circles.

MOVE TOWARD ME-FOLLOW ME—Point toward person or unit, then beckon palm up, motioning toward body.



MOVE TOWARD ME-TAKE OFF—Hold arm extended to the rear. Swing it overhead and forward in the direction desired.

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin

To Prepare For Wheat Planting

Wheat is an important crop in many of our farming programs and the selection of good seed will result in a better crop next year. Due to the infection of Scab and Powdery Mildew in our winter wheat this past year, growers should be extra careful this fall by planting clean seed. Certified seed would be free of these problems. If you are planning to use homegrown seed, then do an extra good job of cleaning and treating. Vitavax 200 is a recommended fungicide for seed treatment. The fly-free date is either after the first killing frost or, in Southeastern Pennsylvania, October 10.

Just a few reminders on planting wheat -- it should not be planted in the same field more often than once every 5 years; this time period will reduce the fungus carryover in the soil. Plow the field as early as you can, then disc and harrow to kill as many weeds as possible. It's also a good idea to harrow the field thoroughly the day of seeding.

To Help Cows Adjust

During this time of the year, cows are subjected to many stresses. They need all the help they can get from you to adjust to new feeding programs, changing weather and to indoor confinement. Feeding changes should be made gradually. Bringing cows in from the pasture and confining them to concrete all day long can be a severe stress. An earthen exercise lot will do wonders for these cows. Good stall maintenance can also increase their comfort. When cows are kept in confinement, we have the obligation of providing proper ventilation. This is especially critical during fall and spring when the weather can change quite drastically and quite suddenly.

It is a good idea to work closely with your veterinarian to develop a good health program for your herd.

To Fertilize Alfalfa Stands

After the last cutting of alfalfa is removed, it is a good practice to topdress the field with a phosphorus-potash fertilizer. Many growers have been doing this for years with good results. The fall application permits time for the soil elements to reach the root zone of the plants and become available for next spring's growth. Well fertilized alfalfa fields will produce more top quality forage and will be able to withstand adversities much better. Also, after the removal of the first crop next spring, another application of fertilizer should be made. Research continues to show that a nitrogen application on established stands of alfalfa is not a good investment. Apply only the amount recommended by your soil test results.

To Protect Plants For The Winter

Plants with shallow roots such as azaleas, rhododendrons, mountain laurel and flowering dogwood need frequent watering. And it's a good idea to continue watering these plants on a regular basis until the ground freezes this fall.

A shallow-rooted plant has most of its root system in the upper three to five inches of soil. Since this is the first layer to dry out, it's very important that these plants receive at least an inch of water each week through the season.

Also, the more water your plants can take up before the ground freezes, the better they will withstand the severe winter conditions. Keep in mind that once the ground does freeze, there will be no free water for the plants to take up. But even though the ground is frozen, the parts of the plant above the ground will continue to lose water.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

CAN THESE BONES LIVE?

September 24, 1989

Background Scripture:
Ezekiel 37: 1-14.
Devotional Reading:
Luke 24: 1-12.

It is one of those questions that seemingly has no answer: "Where do you go when there's nowhere else to go?" Maybe you have never found yourself in that position, but many of us have — situations in which there seemed nowhere to turn because we had reached "the end of the road." That "dead-end" might be the loss of one's job or profession, the loss of a loved one, the loss of one or more of one's faculties. All of these are losses which seem so great as to utterly defeat us and make us despair.

In the last few years some of my friends have faced that kind of "dead-end" experience. One man has been forced out of the corporation that he started several decades ago. The bank has foreclosed on two of our best friends and forced them into bankruptcy. An associate in the church has had to resign his position under pressure and a promising career is in ashes. Another friend has been inconsolable over the death of her husband. Still another dear friend has been given one year to live by his physician.

ROAD'S END

Each of these people, I'm sure, has been tempted to believe that he or she has reached the end of the road. Although our own personal situations may not be quite so drastic as those cited above, most of us can appreciate what it means to feel that life has come crashing down about us. Possibly each of us have lost something along the way that seems irreplacable, perhaps our dreams or ideals.

That's the way the people of Israel felt during the days of their Babylonian captivity. Their nation had been smashed, their royalty slaughtered, their armies destroyed, their temple desecrated, their people scattered, their way of life changed forever, and their covenant with God forsaken. "Can Israel ever rise again?" they must have asked themselves. And more than likely their answer was likely to be "No Israel is dead and finished." Their defeat had been so total, the consequences so disastrous that it was not a matter of rallying a defeated nation, but of resurrecting a rotting corpse!

Actually, Ezekiel's vision carries the desperate situation one giant step further: Israel was not a battlefield of rotting corpses, but a valley of dry bones. If it seems possible to resuscitate a corpse, it is even more impossible to make a corpse out of a heap of dry bones. And that's what God showed Ezekiel in his vision, so God's question must have seemed a foolish one to the prophet: "Son of man, can these bones live?" (37:3). Instead of giving the obvious answer in the negative, something — was it a remnant of faith? — made Ezekiel answer cautiously: "O Lord God, thou knowest" (37:4).

Who knows what might have happened if Ezekiel had answered with a flat "No way, Lord!"? But Ezekiel apparently knew in the depth of his being that our hope is built, not upon human possibilities, but divine intentions. Humanly speaking, there was no hope that Israel would ever rise again; her fall had been too great. But that is "humanly speaking," and when we have said all that humans can say, there is still something else that can be said: "Thus saith the Lord..."

If there are any devastating wreckages in your life, the future may seem pretty bleak and even hopeless. But, let us always remember that even the driest bones can live again when God blows the breath of His Spirit upon them.

higher corn and soybeans with a slack near term export outlook pressuring. Prices were confined to narrow ranges throughout most of the day with September expiring unchanged at $3.80. December gained 1-1/2 cents and settled at $3.91-3/4 after trading in a range from $3.91 to $3.92.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Live cattle futures closed from unchanged to 28 lower while feeders were lower from $ .25 to $.38/cwt. Early weakness was tied to follow through after yesterday's selling with prices firming on reports of active fed cattle sales and commercial short covering. Additional support came from spillover on limit gains in the belly pit with buying interest dulled by the futures premium to cash. Feeders were lower on pressure from higher corn futures and aggressive local selling. October live cattle settled 10 lower at $71.15 after trading in a range from $70.87 to $71.35.

NEXT DAY OUTLOOK: CASH PRICES - steady to weak FUTURES - steady.

ACRES HOG UPDATE: Live hog futures prices firmed today and settled from 10 to 63 higher while bellies closed limit higher on the front four options. Live hogs were supported by spillover from the belly pit and rumors that an announcement on food aid to Poland was forthcoming. Early session pressure was linked to larger than expected receipts topping the 350,000 mark. Gains on the October option were held in check by the unwinding of hog/cattle spreads and ideas that cash prices would trend lower as a result of hefty marketings.

NEW CHORE-TIME SWISH POULTRY WATERING SYSTEMS

for broilers

22 Houses Already Sold Of This Sytstem In PA

Here Is Why Area Broiler Producers Are Switching To SWISH:

- ❒ Growers Are Getting Best Results In Feed Conversion And Weight Gain With Swish Cups, And Earning Top Bonuses.
- ❒ The Patented Valve Is Reliable And Keeps The Cup Clean And Litter Dry.
- ❒ Swish Cups Are Designed To Provide Higher Volume, Fresher And Colder Water During Hot Weather.
- ❒ Swish Cups Are LESS EXPENSIVE Than Nipple Drinkers.

Why our "Self-cleaning cup" performs best

A cup drinker is the most natural way for a bird to drink. Compared with a nipple, birds drink more water from a cup. This makes heavier birds.

And our cups perform better than other brands. We believe there are several reasons for this:

1. On most of our systems, the water supply is thru a pipe at ground level, so the water stays cooler and much more refreshing
2. Compared with "bell type" drinkers and others with standing water, our cups let each bird trigger its own fresh water, which increases consumption since it's fresher, cooler, and more appetizing.
3. Unlike nipples which can get too low or too high, our system is more forgiving of uneven floors. If birds can reach into the cup, they can drink.
4. Our system provides easy access to water for brooding birds as young as one day old. Float balls snap onto trigger to automatically raise water levels and attract young birds.
5. Nipples frequently dribble water on the floor and bell waterers collect dust into the water. Compare our benefits with theirs. We also offer a deep cup for use with roasters to help keep your floors dry.
6. Other cups don't offer the unique "swishing action" ours do. So feed can accumulate and get other brands of cups dirty and packed with stale feed Birds just naturally prefer a clean cup.

(See illustration in box above for how our cup was designed to be the only self-cleaning cup available today.)

CHORE-TIME/SWISH — we believe it's the best watering system available

See back of sheet for the systems we offer for various applications.

CHORE-TIME SWISH Self-Cleaning Cups Are Available In Continuous Lines or 8 Ft. Drinkers

PROMISING SIGNS OF PROSPERITY.

For better standability and higher yields.

Not every seed corn can stand the test of our tough growing season. But Agway AG673 and AG788 can because they're bred specifically for the soil, climate and growing conditions in this region.

So when you see these Agway signs, you know you're looking at the promise of excellent standability and outstanding yield potential.

For a prosperous 1990 season, ask your Agway Farm Enterprise Salesperson for the facts on these proven hybrids.

West Germans Exchange Ideas, Friendship With Lebanon County Farmers

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Language was no barrier between 32 Germans and Lebanon County Farmers' Association members on September 15. The association hosted the West Germans to exchange farmings ideas.

The Germans first stop was at Tom and Shirley Krall's dairy farm.

Shirley, who takes an active part in farming duties, asked the group, "Do the wives help on your farms?"

"Ya, ya," both men and women shook their heads. The interpreter explained, "It's necessary because hired labor is too expensive. We couldn't make a living if we depended on hired labor."

With gestures, smiles and the help of an interpreter, questions and answers bounced fast and furiously between the two groups.

The West Germans admired the counties' farms and noted that local family farms are more similar to theirs than those they toured in the midwest.

"Our farmers and the U.S. farmers have the same problems," said Leebmann Raphael, who helped organized the exchange. "And we are interested in finding ways to keep the family farm alive."

The two groups compared milk prices, care of the Kralls' 71 Holsteins, and the crops grown on the 73-acre farm. They were interested in the calf pens that Krall had built and were surprised that the Kralls sell instead of raise their bull calves.

Krall told the visitors, "We are proud and thank you for the qualities of hard work and thriftiness that we inherited from you."

He told of his parents' visit to Germany and how they were so impressed that they spent $80,000 on the farm to duplicate German methods.

Krall joked, "I hope we can give you some ideas on how to spend your money also."

Most of the visitors raise swine and were intrigued with the Leon Arnold hog farm with its farrow to finish purebred and commercial operation.

The tour group, which had just spent six days in Iowa, told Arnold that his quality of hogs far exceeds the Iowa swines.

The visitors remarked that it is hard to compare Arnolds operation with their own since the German government subsidizes their operation and dictates how large the buildings must be, the feed type and the size of the hog. They were generous in compliments and intrigued that the Arnold farm received the Pennsylvania Swine Breeders award this past January for contributing the most to the advancement of the swine industry in the state. The farm carries an inventory of 1,200 hogs and hold six production sales annually. Their major breed is Yorkshire sows sired by Durocs. They farrow 160 litters annually averaging 12 plus pigs born and weaned at 10.2. They have tested a top boar in Leebmann Raphael, right, expresses the West German tour group's gratitude for the hospitality of Tom and Shirley Krall and their sons during the farm tour on September 15.

3. As a member, you receive 5 issues of the Pennsylvania Holstein Profiles annually and the Farmshine newspaper on a weekly basis.

4. You can receive help in locating cattle to buy or get help in selling some of your animals. This can be accomplished through private-treaty sales or consigment sales sponsored by the state or county clubs.

5. As a member, you can participate in state sponsored shows. These include 5 Regional Shows, State Spring Show, and the Fall Championship Show. Staff members also assist with the Eastern National Holstein Show.

You don't have to have a barn full of registered cows to take part and enjoy the fellowship that comes with being a member of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

For more information on becoming a Pennsylvania Holstein Association member, contact the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, 839 Benner Pike, State College, PA 16801 - 814-234-0364.

Winners Named In Perry County Livestock Drawing

NEWPORT (Perry Co.) — The Perry County Livestock Promotion Committee, a group of interested individuals who support and organize youth livestock show and sales, recently conducted their annual livestock drawing during the county fair.

The meat from a steer, hog, lamb, and goat was given away during the drawing. The winners were: Mac Rumberger, beef; Jane Baughman, lamb; Cindy Benner, pork; and Deb Gill, goat. These winners had only to report to a local meat shop to claim their prizes, which were cut, frozen, and wrapped.

The money raised by ticket sales for the drawing is used to benefit FFA and 4-H youth livestock members through support of their sales and shows.

Any individuals interested in supporting the goals of the committee can call 717/582-2131 for further information.

Novice Showman Has Supreme Champion Steer At Solanco Fair

Heidi Frey led her steer, Beefsteak Charlie, to the grand champion spot in the 4-H show during the Solanco Fair.

BY LISA RISSER

SOLANCO (Lancaster Co.) — Rusty Allen kicked off his beef showing career with spectacular results. He led his 1,270-pound Angus to the supreme champion steer spot at the Solanco Fair Thursday night.

Taking reserve supreme champion honors was Ryan Rohrer, who had the reserve grand champion FFA steer to Allen's FFA grand champion.

Allen, the 15-yer-old son of Jim and Carlene Allen of Nottingham, is a member of the Oxford FFA chapter. He worked every day with his steer, Chester.

Judge Cheryl Fairbarin, Chester County Extension livestock agent, called Chester a nicely patterned complete kind of steer. "All together he was a nice package," she said.

Rohrer, 14, also from Nottingham and an Oxford chapter FFA'er, is a veteran showman of seven years. His 1,230-pound Angus is Jason. Rohrer, the son of Robert and Joan Rohrer, also was named top senior showman.

The top two 4-H titles went to two Quarryville sisters. Thirteen-year-old Heidi Frey and her steer, Beefsteak Charlie, nabbed grand champion 4-H honors, while Anna Marie Frey slid into the reserve grand champion position.

Heidi's 1,175-pound Angus steer is her first grand champion in the six years she's been showing.

Anna Marie, the Pennsylvania Angus Princess, showed Skeeter, a 1,145-pound Angus. She has been showing steers for 11 of her 19 years. The sisters are the daughters of Fred and June Frey.

Pennsylvania Angus Princess Anna Marie Frey took a purple rosette at the Solanco Fair for her steer, Skeeter, who was selected as the reserve grand champion of the 4-H show.

Manor FFA'ers Sweep Top Spots At Solanco Fair Hog Show

BY LISA RISSER

SOLANCO (Lancaster Co.) — After viewing 95 hogs, judge Cheryl Fairbarin selected the top light heavyweights shown by a pair of Manor Chapter FFA'ers to be the grand and reserve grand champion hogs of the Solanco Fair.

Mike Philips' 244-pound Duroc/Hampshire cross was tapped for the grand champion spot, while Kathy Brown had the reserve.

"The gilt was lean and extremely meaty. She had a lot of muscle in the loin and ham yet was sound moving," said Fairbairn of the champion. Fairbairn is the Extension livestock agent for Chester County.

Philips, the 16-year-old son of Arthur Philips and Kathleen and Clarence Hess, exercised his gilt by chasing it around the pen. It was the Holtwood youth's first grand champion.

Taking reserve grand champion honors was the 244-pound gilt shown by Brown of Millersville. It was the 17-year-old's first brush with the spotlight, however, she plans to try again at the Lampeter Fair next week.

Brown, the daughter of Richard C. and Shirley Brown, plans to put her earnings from the steer toward the purchase of a fast car.

In both Pennsylvania and the rest of the United States, dairy cooperatives comprise an important part of the agricultural sector. Almost 80 percent of the U.S. milk is marketed through dairy cooperatives; while in Ireland that figure is 100 percent.

Other important agricultural cooperatives in the Northeast include fruit and vegetable, rural electric, farm credit and breeding cooperatives.

Well-known cooperative brands with ties to Pennsylvania include Land O'Lakes butter; Welch's grape juice and other products; Snyder's potato chips; Lucky Leaf and Musselman fruit products; Hood, MMI, Dairylea and Eastern dairy products; and Agway branded seeds, dog food and other farm supplies.

Tickets to the breakfast are $15.00 and are available from PAFC by calling 814-231-3010.

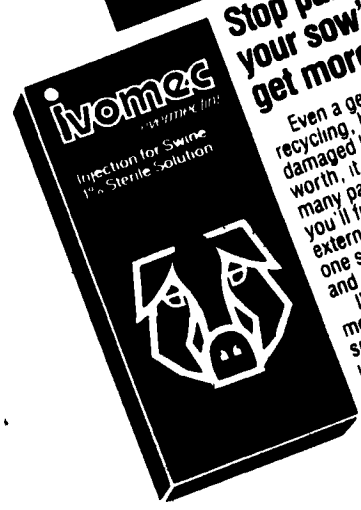
Baby Boom.

Stop parasites from stealing your sow's nutrition and you could get more weaned pigs.



Even a genetically advanced sow can have trouble recycling, breeding and carrying a litter if she's been damaged by parasites. So, considering what a litter is worth, it makes good business sense to control as many parasites as possible. Check all the labels and you'll find no product controls as many internal and external parasites as IVOMEC® (ivermectin) with one shot, including the costly threadworm (adult and somatic stages).

IVOMEC is administered by injection, assuring more accurate dosage when compared with sprays, dips and pour-ons. If one square inch is missed while spraying, thousands of eggs could be missed, and it only takes a few to reinfect your operation.

Pick the product that offers the most assurance. Remember, less parasites could mean more pigs.

Kinglea Leader, a Ca-Lill Standout Cavalier son from an Excellent Wapa Arlinda Conductor dam, was bred by John L. King, Jr., of Church Hill, Maryland. He was widely sampled through Holstein Sire Development Program (HSDS), the Holstein Association's young sire sampling program.

Leader's present proof values are +$176 PTA Protein $, +1798 PTA Milk, and +58 PTA Protein Pounds at 75% Reliability. This information is based on 43 daughters in 22 herds in 11 different states. Additionally, Leader has a PTA Type proof of +1.14. His TPI value of +848 ranks him fifty-third in the breed, and third among red factor sires.

Semen from Kinglea Leader is available domestically through Sire Power, its Allied Genes marketing partners NOBA and KABSU, and U.S. Genes in the western states. Sire Power is also responsible for sales to Latin American countries, while World-Wide Sires handles all other international markets.

Ayrshire, Jersey Numbers Pack Solanco Dairy Barns To Near Capacity

BY PAT PURCELL

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — "It's been a long time since I've since this much quality in an Ayrshire show," said Ginger Myers, Solanco Fair colored breed dairy show judge.

Wednesday's show was also the largest Ayrshire show held at the Quarryville Fairgrounds in many years. According to Maurice Welk, a member of the dairy show committee, this year's roster for both the Colored Breed show and the Holstein show totaled 223. And that new livestock barn which was completed just a few short years ago was nearly filled to capacity. But no one at the fair is complaining.

"We've got more dairy breeders showing especially in the Ayrshire and Jersey breeds. And many of them are just bringing more animals to the show. This year we've had bigger Jersey and Ayrshire shows than we've seen in quite a few years," said Welk.

R & B Wentworth of Quarryville captured three championship titles in the Ayrshire show. Grand champion went to Wentworth Farm Miss November. This 2-year-old impressed Myers with her upstandingness and body capacity, Myers also made her best udder in the class on her balance of udder, symmetry, capacity and desirable teat placement. Sire was Ben Ferme Amigo.

Wentworth Farm Lucky Streak captured the reserve grand title in the show. Lucky Streak was an easy winner in her class with her tremendous scale and balance and overall lenght. This 6-year-old also took best udder of the class. Sire was Mar-Ral Madge's Boy.

Reserve junior champion also went to an R & B Wentworth animal. Wentworth Farm Captain Becky, took the honors with her length, style, and strength. Myers described Becky as a beautiful heifer.

The Wentworth family is orginally from the Amherst, Massachusetts, and moved to Lancaster County approximately two years ago. Rob and Bonnie Wentworth earned both premier breeder and premier exhibitor honors of the Ayrshire show—a great way to celebrate their first year of competition at the Solanco Fair.

No stranger to the winner's circle in any fair, district or state show was Heather Becker's intermediate yearling, G R Narvon Valley's Chmp Garland. The stylishness, breed character and exceptional feet and legs made this an easy winner for Becker from the Gap area.

Junior division grand champion went to Brian Nolan of Dremnol Ayrshire in Cochranville.

JERSEY

Arrowsmith has become synonomous with champions at the Solanco Fair and Tom continued that traditon by capturing both the grand championships in the open show and the titles in the junior division. Myers found only one fault with Hillacres Fame Tee in the ring. She was alone.

"This tremendous aged can take a lot more competition. She is extremely youthful for a 7-year-old and walks on a very good set of legs and feet. She has a perfect body with a good udder. It is a shame she does have more competition today," said Myers.

Tee was sired by Sun Valley Quicksilver. Breeder was Matt Arrowsmith.

Reserve grand went to Arrowsmith's first placed 4-year-old,

21st Century Genetics Sampling Sire Comes From Great Cow Family

SHAWANO, WI — A new sampling sire from 21st Century Genetics, acquired from Lorne Ruth, Watsontown, Pa., is now available for sampling.

The nation's largest direct-member, farmer-owned cattle breeding cooperative continues to offer some of the strongest genetic packages in the industry following the July sire summary.

The newest offering from the full-service organization is 21J375 Stonyrun Royal Sam-ET, a son of Federated Genetics' J.S. Quicksilver Royal.

Royal Sam is among the sampling sires featured in the recently released cooperative's sire directory.

Combined with his maternal grandsire, A-Nine Top Top Brass, Royal Sam has Parent Averages of +142P$, +35P, +54F, +866M and a Pedigree Index of +103$, +26P, +39F, +601M.

Royal Sam's dam is Mar Bil Top Salome, VG-84. Her top record was as a two-year-old when she had 15,355 pounds of milk, 717 pounds of butterfat, a 4.7 percent butterfat test, 544 pounds of protein and a 3.5 percent protein test in 320 days. Her current Cow PTA includes +143P$, +33P, +53F, +1011M.

Royal Sam is backed by five generations of Excellent or Very Good dams. His maternal granddam is Excellent-90 with four records over 800 pounds of butterfat and a top record of 1,015 pounds of butterfat. His great granddam is Very Good-87 with a top record of 809 pounds of butterfat.

Dairymen using Royal Sam semen are eligible for the incentives of the 21st Century Genetics proving program. The program recently distributed a record amount of money to a record level of herds participating in the cooperative's sampling program for milking daughter payments following the July summary.

He is also enrolled in the American Jersey Cattle Club's Young Sire Program with those incentives available.

Royal Sam is housed at the 21st Century Genetics Sampling Sire Facility at New Prague, MN.

Soybean Association Hails Patent Rejection

ST LOUIS, MO — The decision by the U.S. Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences to uphold a patent examiner's rejection of the Barham patent allows soybean farmers to take full advantage of an important new market for U.S. soybeans, according to the American Soybean Association (ASA).

"The rejection of the Barham patent will allow operators of grain storage facilities to use soybean oil as a dust suppressant without paying royalties," said Marlyn Jorgensen, ASA president and an Iowa farmer. "Using soybean in this fashion represents a potential 23 million bushel domestic market for U.S. soybeans."

Dr. David Erickson, ASA director of tehcnical services and staff coordinator of ASA's more than two-year effort to have the patent re-examined, said the safety gains of using soybean oil to control dust in elevators are immeasurable.

"In all recent instances of elevator explosions, not one that we are aware of was utilizing a dust-control system of this type," he said. "On the other hand, there has been no reported instances of explosions in facilities using a soybean oil dust-control system."

Garber Family Commended

Now the Garbers insist that children not be allowed to ride on tractors.

"It's tough," Garber admits. "The children beg to go along." Although he's tempted to believe nothing would happen he said, "I force myself to say no. Sometimes we parents must be tough."

The Garber's safety efforts were heralded as the best in a contest sponsored by "Successful Farming" magazine and "Just Kids," a national farm safety program for children.

The founder of the "Just Kids" program, Marilyn Adams, began the program from her own personal tragedy. Two years ago her 11-year-old son suffocated in a gravity-flow wagon filled with corn.

During the ceremony, Adams, who is from Iowa, said that Sweden and Finland do not have the tractor fatalities that the U.S. have since they have mandatory tractor roll over. She quoted statistics that the tractor is the number one killer on the farm and that one in four children's injuries on the farm are preventable.

"Canada doesn't have that problem," she said, "because teachers are given a 300-page manual on farm safety, which is taught to students."

Adams through her farm safety program developed videos, coloring books, newsletters and other items to promote safety.

She is apalled that so many parents do not practive safety measures on the farm. She related an incident that she had heard about this week. A cow had fallen in a manure pit. The dad threw boards out and told his 16-year-old son to walk on the boards to save the cow.

"We are not thinking," Adams cried. "Don't take the risk with our kids. God gave them to us. If we don't take care of them, he takes them away."

President George Bush sent a telegram congratulating the Garbers for showing exemplary foresight and resourcefulness in protecting their children. He said, "Their simple, inexpensive measures can prevent most of the serious agricultural accidents involving young Americans."

What can one person do to change the statistics? Senator Noah Wenger said the Garber family proved that one family can do a lot. "You brought honor to your farm, yourself, your county, your state and the nation."

In an effort to make the agriculture community more safety conscious President Bush proclaimed September 17 to 23 National Farm Safety Week.

Proclamations were read by Senator Noah Wenger, State Representative John Barley, Lancaster County Commissioner Chairman Jim Huber, and Steve Crawford for the Secretary of Agriculture.

The Garbers live on an 185-acre dairy farm in Pequea Township. They hold monthly meetings with their children, employees, and their families to keep up to date on safety practices.

Jay Irwin, county extension service agent, noted that since 1984, 17 farming fatalities have happened in Lancaster County. Six happened to children between the ages of 1 and five. The county has a higher percentage of farm accidents than any other state.

Jim Huber, county commissioner, said that the county's agricultural industry is a source of strength and pride. He urged an all out effort to make the farm a safer place to live.

Entries Due For All-American Jersey Show

REYNOLDSBURG, OH — The All American Jersey Show and Sale will be held November 4-7 at the North American International Livestock Exposition in Louisville, Kentucky. Entries are due September 20, although late dairy entries will be accepted until October 10. Premium catalogs are available by calling the N.A.I.L.E. at (502) 588-3166.

The All American Jersey Show and Sale is the largest dairy breed event in the United States. In 1988, over 530 Jerseys were shown in the two-day Open Show. In addition, the Junior Show had over 260 entries exhibited.

The All American Jersey Sale is again offering superior Jerseys from across the nation. The Pot O'Gold Sale, with bidding open only to juniors age 7-19, gives youth a chance to purchase Jersey heifers of outstanding genetic merit.

"The Greatest Jersey Show on Earth" is the theme for the National Jersey Jug Futurity. Premiums estimated at over $8,000.00 will be available to this year's class. The winner will be named from the 835 nominations first entered three years ago.

The schedule for activities at the 1989 All American Jersey Show and Sale is as follows:

Saturday, November 4, 1989, 8:00 A.M. - All American Junior Jersey Show; 4:00 P.M. - Pot O'Gold Heifer Sale; 7:00 P.M. - Junior Banquet and Funfest

Sunday, November 5, 1989, 1:00 P.M. - National Jersey Jug Futurity; 5:30 P.M. - All American Jersey Sale

Monday, November 6, 1989, 8:00 A.M. - All American Jersey Show, Senior Yearlings in milk through group classes.

Tuesday, November 7, 1989, 8:00 A.M. - All American Jersey Show, Intermediate Heifer calves through Junior Best Three

RCMA's Discontinuation

RCMA officials were unsuccessful in recent efforts to establish an over-order premium for Class II milk, McAllister noted. Reportedly, they were stymied by an earlier RCMA settlement with the region's major Class II buyers.

The discontinuation does not mean the end of RCMA activities, McAllister said. The agency continues to collect and distribute premiums in Federal Order 1, which covers the New England states, and in a state order in western New York. In addition, the agency's 15-member staff continues to operate, concentrating largely on touching base with the 22,000 cooperative and independent dairymen with RCMA membership, McAllister said.

RCMA officials are trying to "maintain our organization, so that when the price drops, as it surely will, we can be back and say, 'hey, now we need over-order pricing again,'" McAllister said.

Some observers, such as Robert Yonkers, an ag economist at Penn State University, are optimistic about RCMA's chances of resurrection. He said recruitment efforts, which have lagged lately, should rebound when rising milk supplies loosen the tight market and some of the voluntary premiums paid by handlers begin to dry up.

Others are more pessimistic, saying the longer-term legacy of RCMA's current difficulties will be the continued fragmentation of the Order 2 milk market and the failure of farmers to rally around a cooperative approach to pricing.

In another development, Yonkers noted that RCMA's troubles are likely to hasten efforts by the newly organized Producers Equalization Agency (PEA) to implement over-order pricing in Federal Order 36, which covers Pittsburgh and eastern Ohio. Cooperative and independent members there have selected a board of directors, which has plans to hire a full-time general manager by Oct. 15, Yonkers said. The organzation plans to charge premiums when PEA membership accounts for at least 85 percent of the order's milk marketings.

Conservationists To Hold Joint Meeting

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Focusing on the environmental challenges of the next decade, the State Conservation Commission and the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts (PACD) will hold the 1989 Joint Annual Conference at the State College Sheraton Inn, October 2nd through 4th.

Roughly 300 people from Pennsylvania's 66 county conservation districts, State and Federal environmental agencies, and private environmental and agricultural organizations are expected to attend this 42nd annual joint meeting.

Numerous workshops will be conducted to teach district directors and staff how to better handle the increasing variety of environmental problems facing the country in the coming years. Topics include acid rain: farmland and wetlands preservation; solid waste management; agricultural nutrient management; and erosion and sedimentation controls.

During the PACD annual meeting scheduled for Tuesday morning, association members will elect the statewide officers for 1989/90. The impact of the 1990 Farm Bill legislation now before Congress will be discussed by PACD.

R. Neil Sampson, Executive Vice President of the American Forestry Association, will give the keynote address at Monday's State Conservation Commission Luncheon. A nationally recognized spokesman for conservation, Sampson is the author of Farmland or Wasteland: A Time to Choose, and For Love of the Land, which details the history and function of America's 3,000 conservation districts.

Pennsylvania Environmental Resources Secretary Arthur A. Davis will chair the meeting of the State Conservation Commission at 9:00 a.m. Monday, October 2nd. Responsible for the protection of the Commonwealth's soil, water and other natural resources, the Commission guides and assists the efforts of county conservation districts implementing programs locally.

Slated for Tuesday, October 3rd, at 6:30 p.m, the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts' Annual Awards Banquet will recognize the conservation and environmental education efforts of seven private citizens and organizations from the state.

Also during the banquet, the Berks and Westmoreland Conservation Districts will receive the 42nd Annual Goodyear Conservation Awards. Sponsored by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company in cooperation with the National Association of Conservation Districts, the awards honor districts on the basis of their resource conservation accomplishments during the past year.

Best of Doebler's

NOW AT SPRING 1984 PRICES

By Willard Jones

I'm sales manager Willard Jones challenging you to compare Doebler quality and price with other seed companies. No one beats Doebler's.

Let's run a tape on your farm. It's Doebler's Turn the Clock Back Sale. To Spring 1984 prices. And savings can be big. $5, $10, $20 a bushel.

Okay, you're going with our super singles. The new Extra Performance hybrids.

Next, we'll figure 100 acres of corn. Medium flats. 24,000 kernels per acre.

Here it is — You need 28 bushels of Doebler's XPs. Or 30 bags of 80,000 unit stuff.

Now the hard figuring:

First saving. $84.

Extra Performance hybrids are marked down $3 a bushel. You earn it immediately by placing an order with your dealer before Nov. 15. Whether one bushel or 1,000. For you, that's 28 x $3 = $84.

Next. Quantity Discount. $70.

Quantity discounts start at $1.50 per bushel on a 10-24 bushel order placed before November 15. You save $2.50 on 25-49 bu., $4.50 for 50-149 bu. and $5.50 for 150-499 bu. Your 28 bu. x $2.50 = $70.

Now take 10% Early Pay. $188.44.

Pay by Nov. 15, and immediately save $6.73 a bushel. That's better than most CDs earn at bank in a year. 28 bu. x $6.73 = $188.44.

TOTAL SAVINGS — $342.44.

On this tape, you only pay $60.57 per bushel bag for our Extra Performance single crosses. A $12.23 saving per bushel. $84 + $70 + $188.44 = $342.44.

Add bushel bonus. $121.14.

That's what you save by buying 28 bushels of Doebler's medium flats, rather than 30 bags of 80,000 unit seed. $60.57 sale price x 2 = $121.14.

Great prices for all hybrids

Look at these Spring 1984 prices for each and every bushel in a 100 acre order, medium flats and 24,000 kernels per acre:

Only $54.27
for commercial single crosses like 89XC, 75X and 67X after all discounts. Plateless seed, $52.47.

A low, low $49.77
for 75X-MOD after full discounts. This modified is hot in mid season country. Plateless, $47.97.

Rock bottom $45.27
for our five three-ways after full discounts. But hurry on 944. It sells out fast. Plateless, $41.67.

Doebler's 56-lb bag vs. 80,000 unit bag

Which plants more?

All you need is a scale. And same grade seed in both bags.

If 80,000 unit bag weighs more than 56 pounds, it will plant more acres than Doebler bushel.

If 80,000 unit bag weighs less than 56 pounds, it will plant less.

Compared to Doebler's 56-lb. bushel, a 28-lb. unit bag will plant only 50% of acreage; a 42-lb. unit bag 75% of acreage; and a 50-lb. unit bag 89% of acreage.

MacCauley Shows Champ Solanco Market Lambs

BY LISA RISSER

SOLANCO (Lancaster Co.) — The rainy weather didn't dampen Donna MacCauley's outlook on life Wednesday. In fact, bright and sunny would better describe her day as she beat out all competitors at the Solanco sheep show to have both grand and reserve grand champion market lambs.

The 18-year-old Atglen native exhibited two 126-pound Suffolk lambs that judge Deb Seibert named first in the heavyweight class before tapping them for the purple rosettes.

MaCauley, a student at Penn State, selects about 10 lambs each year from her flock of 60 Suffolks and 25 Cheviots to show at market lamb contests. She looks for lambs with good leg muscling and depth and length in the loin.

Earlier in the day MacCauley won the sheep showmanship contest.

ABS Americana Sale Offers Something For Everyone

DEFOREST, WI — Guernseys, Jerseys, and Holsteins will take the center stage at the Americana Classic Sale, Thursday, October 5, in conjunction with World Dairy Expo, Madison, Wisconsin.

Sponsored by American Breeders Service, this fifth Americana will begin at 5:00 p.m. with Guernseys, followed by Jerseys, and then Holsteins. "The sale will combine ABS's top sires with some of the best cows and cow families of the breed to create the finest genetic opportunities ever offered at public auctions," shares Todd Charnetzki, sale manager. Charnetzki is dairy product manager for ABS.

Southwind Valiant Naoma-ET, the EX-93 dam of 29 H5296 SOUTHWIND, flushed to 29 H6170 LABAN, is lot number one of the Holstein sale. She sells with 25 embryo contracts. In addition, Long-Haven Valiant Sally's family, the cow that sold for $350,000 at the 1986 Americana, will again be featured. Offered is the first choice 29 H5296 SOUTHWIND heifer from Longhaven Sassafrass-ET, a "Tradition" out of Sally.

The Jersey sale line-up includes first choice 29 J2850 BRIGADIER heifer ET from Avon Road Top Brass Meg, a 29 J2793 TOP BRASS daughter ranked second on the July 1989 CPI list. Also, Forest Glen Brass Dedra-ET, a 90% daughter of TOP BRASS. She has eight maternal brothers in A.I. including BRASS ROYAL at ABS. Her dam and grandam both have records over 20,000 milk.

Valley Farms Mindys Moonglow EX-90, number one CPI 29 G0838 VICTORY daughter is lot number one for the Guernsey sale. Moonglow is contracted to 29 G0846 KING for ABS.

"We have 88 head consigned for the sale," explains Barbara Lee, sale selection chairman and manager, dairy progeny testing for ABS. "There are 40 Holsteins, 31 Jerseys, and 17 Guernseys representing many of the popular and newly released ABS sires.

Daughters have been consigned from the Holstein bulls, VALIANT, LABAN, MELWOOD, SEXATION, RYAN, FANCY PAUL, HACK, CUBBY, CENTRA, HILTON, APOLLO, and several others. In addition to TOP BRASS, Jersey sires represented include SILVER SAINT, OPPORTUNITY, BERNARD, TORMENTOR, BABES LAD, and BRASS BUCKET. The Guernseys will be sired by VICTORY, KING, IDEAL, BUTTERMOST, and ADMIRAL DAVIS.

"The Americana Classic is the premier A.I. sale in the breed, offering dairymen the opportunity to see offspring of many of ABS's current bulls," says Charnetzki. "Our goal is to offer animals for sale that will make money for the buyer as well as the consignor."

"The Americana Classic really offers something for everyone," sums up Charnetzki.

American Breeders Service is a Grace Animal Services Company which markets dairy and beef semen, and related products throughout the United States and to 60 foreign countries.

Hand Signals

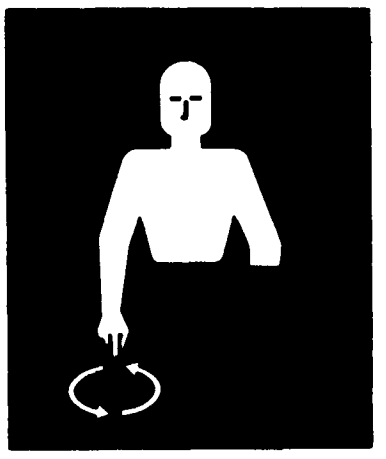
You probably use more signals than you realize. However, uniformity is the key point and reason enough to get the farm or ranch crew together for a training session.

One person should study the hand signals ahead of time so that he/she can demonstrate them accurately and explain the circumstances when they are to be used. Each person, including family members only infrequently involved, should have the opportunity to practice a particular signal before going on to a new one.

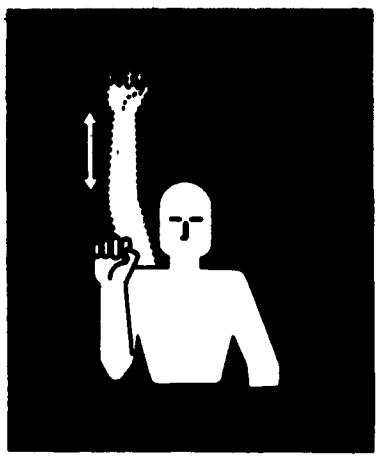
After the initial orientation, take every opportunity to use the signals under real working conditions. If anyone is unsure, sloppy in execution or has just plain forgotten them, an on-the-spot review is needed in order to have the whole crew working as a team.

Encourage neighbors to join you in use of the hand signals during the times when cooperative work is being done. This is National Farm Safety Week, and antyhing you can do to protect yourself, your family and your farm workers, will be worth the effort.

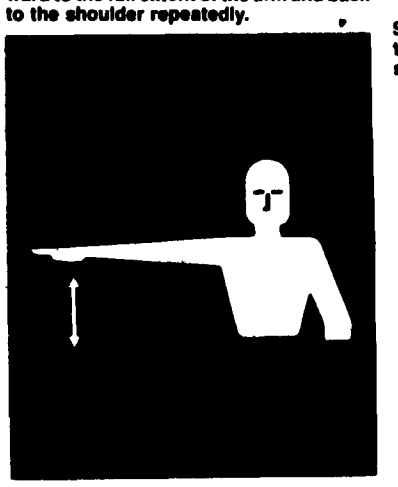
RAISE EQUIPMENT – Make a circular motion with either hand at head level.



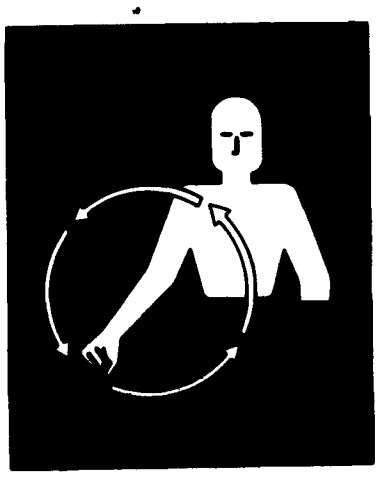
LOWER EQUIPMENT – Make a circular motion with either hand pointing to the ground.



SPEED IT UP-INCREASE SPEED – Fist upward to the full extent of the arm and back to the shoulder repeatedly.

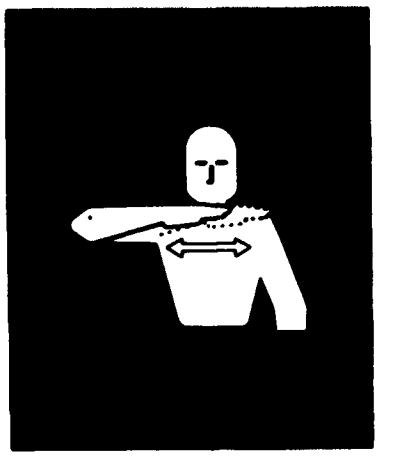


SLOW IT DOWN-DECREASE SPEED – Arm horizontal to the side, palm down. Wave arm downward to 45° repeatedly.



START THE ENGINE – Simulate cranking of vehicle by moving arm in a circular motion at waist level.

STOP – Raise hand upward to the full extent of the arm, palm to the front. Hold signal until understood.



STOP THE ENGINE – Draw right hand across the neck in a "throat cutting" action from left to right.

Price Of Milk To Processors Increases September 1

STRONGSVILLE, OH — A traditional supply/demand scenario with some unexpected swings will raise the price of milk to milk processors on September 1, according to the general manager of the regional dairy cooperative Milk Marketing Inc. (MMI)..

"The milk supply is decreasing and demand for dairy products is increasing, therefore prices are responding," said MMI General Manager Gordon Riehl.

Unexpected for economic conditions brought about by the weather, continued consumer demand and fewer dairy farmers are the elements of the price hike.

"In order for dairy producers to survive the lingering economic effects of last summer's drought and the production of poor quality feeds because of this spring's wet weather, farmers need to get more money for their milk. More money to farmers will keep more farmers in business, and that means area milk processors can be more readily assured of a milk supply to meet consumer needs," he said.

Prices to MMI's milk processor customers will increase between 58 to 73 cents for each one hundred pounds of milk purchased depending upon the area where the processors are located. Of this amount, 43 cents is a national milk price increase based upon the supply/demand picture across the country. Additional price hikes are expected in subsequent months.

"Pay prices to dairy farmers in this area were higher eight years ago than they are today," said Riehl, indicating that the price of milk peaked in December of 1981. Last year, pay prices to producers hit a ten-year low. Since that time the much publicized tough economic conditions on the farm have forced many producers into retirement or selling their operations.

Recent weather conditions have worsened the picture. Financially hurt by last summer's drought, farmers are reeling from this spring's heavy rains which wreaked further havoc on many farming operations.

"Milk production will remain a problem as long as feed quality remains so low. This spring's rains, which prevented farmers from harvesting hay and silage during their peak period, means these crops now will not contain the nutritional value that cows need to produce sufficient quantities of milk," Riehl explained.

"In order not to jeopardize the milk supplies, now and in the future, farmers need to know that they can afford to purchase more nutritional feed from other areas to maintain their animals. If farmers' pay prices do not stay in line with costs of production, the supplies of milk available to this area will obviously diminish. So will the number of dairy farmers," said Riehl.

Nationwide the price of milk is climbing because the supply of milk is dwindling. Government statistics indicate that production across the country is down more than two percent from a year ago.

In MMI's eight state region production has decreased by more than 10 percent.

At a time when production is down nationwide, the consumer demand for dairy products is growing, according to USDA statistics. Fluid milk sales, or bottled milk, are currently strong, up almost 1.5 percent from the beginnning of the year. Cheese sales have climbed nearly eight percent. In fact, almost every category of sales for dairy products is up, except butter.

"Still," Riehl commented, "dairy products remain a consumer bargain. The Consumer Price Index shows that even though dairy product prices have increased 14 percent since 1982, overall the basic food item category has risen 25 percent during that same period."

MMI is a 7,000 member dairy farmer owned cooperative encompassing an eight state midwestern area including Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Michigan, New York, Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia. Last year MMI marketed more than 4.1 billion pounds or 475 million gallons of milk.

Prevent Outbreaks Of Bovine Tuberculosis

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Tuberculosis occurs in every country in the world and in all species of animals, including man. Infected animals are the main source of infection. Other species of farm animals, wild animals and pets can transmit this contagious disease.

Bacteria, Mycobacteria bovis most commonly in cattle, is excreted into the environment through feces, urine, milk, and discharges from the nose, vagina and the uterus. The bacteria can be passed to other animals from a shared water source, feed bunk or being in close quarters with an infected animal. Drinking infected milk is one of the most common ways for tuberculosis to be transmitted to youngstock.

Currently, transmission from cattle to man is not common but still is possible just by working around infected cattle. Infection can also occur when infected, unpasteurized milk is consumed. Should TB be found in your herd, all hired hands and family member should be tested.

Tuberculosis can be prevented only if animals are not exposed to disease-causing bacteria.

- Have animals tested annually, know the health status of your herd.

Mars Tony Day Celebrated At Solanco Holstein Show

BY PAT PURCELL

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — "Mars Tony Day" at the Solanco Fair was Thursday. There were no cartoonish characters roaming the fairgrounds dressed in green tights with a huge "T" across their chests. Mars Tony is not an amusement ride added to the fair.

Mars Tony was the star of the Holstein Dairy Show. Tony sired four of the cows pulled into the ring for the selection of the grand champion.

"I've never had much luck with Mars Tony," said show judge James McCaffree, a Holstein breeder from York County, "but apparently there are a lot of breeders who have done well with this sire."

McCaffree pulled the top two aged cows into the ring along with the first-placed 4-year-old and 2-year-old.

McCaffree awarded the grand championship to the aged cow, a Welk-Shade Holstein, owned by Mark Welk. Donald Hostetter was the breeder on Maplebound Tony Darla.

The second-placed aged cow owned by Welk Acres edged the grand champion in the aged class by taking best udder. Impatiens Mars Starbright, topped the champion in udder balance, symmetry and capacity, but could not over come the tremendous body of the winner. The aged cow class was deep in quality and the top placings were close.

In judging the class McCaffree said, "I am impressed with the good cows in this class all the way down the line. There's a lot of quality and dairyness throughout the class. I've selected this tall cow for her depth of heart and depth and spring of rib. But I must give best udder to the second-placed cow."

Reserve grand champion went to the first placed 4-year-old, owned by Paul Welk of Welk-Crest Holstein. Welk-Crest Tony Amber also bred by Paul Welk was described by McCaffree as the most well-balanced individual. This winner exhibited the most style and balance in a class with several very fine animals at the top.

"She has the levelness of udder I like to see with the most desirable teat placement, I like the dairyness and strength of this 4-year-old," said McCaffree.

James Welk, a junior showman, also took that walk into the center of the ring for the grand champion selection of the open show with the daughter of his first 4-H project. Welk Acres Starbright Tony was bred by Welk of Welk Acres Farm.

The openness of rib, the height and width of rear udder, and the dairyness in this Mars Tony daughter brought her into the spotlight. She did not receive the open show grand title, but she topped the junior division and went home with an equally important win for this young 4-H'er.

Karen Kauffman took reserve grand championship in the junior division and also the junior championship title with her stylish junior yearling, Sukavin Starbuck Jessica, sired by Hanover Hill Starbuck.

"This is a real easy winner. She just floats to the top of the class. She is long, tall and streamlined with very, very correct hind legs. We all have to admire her style," said McCaffree.

Karen is owner-breeder on this fine young animal which has been winning in every show. Jessica's most recent win was at the Fall Champion Holstein Show held in State College two weeks ago. Jessica captured the junior championship there in what was described as one of the finest quality shows held there in the past several years.

Reserve junior champion went to Nathan Kreider's senior calf, Long-Valley Camaro Krystle owned and bred by S & A Kreider & Sons Inc.

"This white heifer may not be the tallest in the class," said McCaffree, "but she is the most balanced heifer in the class. I like her depth of rib, sharpness in the shoulders and her balance and style throughout."

Solanco Fair dairy barns are bulging. This year's show entries in both the Colored Breed show and the Holstein show were up and alarmingly close to capacity. The 1989 Holstein brought together 112 competitors from the southern end of the county.

West Germans Exchange Ideas, Friendship

Delaware, New York, and Pennslyvania. The West Germans were amazed when they visited Wen-Crest Farms and discovered the 95 Holstein rolling herd average is 19,700 pounds. West Germany has a quota system, which offers no incentive for the farmers to increase their herd average. The West German's average herd varies from six to 40 cows. They use stauchion barns and no parlors or free stalls.

Glenn and Jean Wenger and Steven and Bonnie Wenger farm 500 acres on Wen-Crest Farms. In addition to their Holsteins and crop farming they also raise 210,000 turkeys. The visitors remarked that they grow turkeys on a much smaller scale, but they raise toms to 30 to 40 pounds compared with this area's average of 15-pound hens.

While many farmers find visitors an inconvenience, those who participated in the tour expressed their pleasure in the exchange.

Leon Arnold said, "It was fantastic. The tour just got over too quickly."

Shirley Krall, who instigated the visit in the Lebanon area, remarked, "The tour gave us a an incentive to get our farm nice. We learned as much from them as they did from us."

With hugs, smiles and handshakes the visitors expressed their enthusiasm for the hospitality and the beauty of the area.

"These tours promote friendship and positive public relations," Jeffrey Werner, LCGA president remarked. "We hope to do it again."

To find ways to preserve the family farm, West German farmers toured three farms in Lebanon County.

During the farm tour at Tom and Shirley Krall's dairy, Brandon Bollinger, 2, found a friend, Ted the dog, to take a rest with him.

Dairy Feeding Systems National Symposium

ITHACA, NY — A national symposium on Dairy Feeding Systems will be held in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania on January 10-12, 1990. The symposium speakers, who represent 14 states and Canada, will focus on ways to improve dairy farm profitability through improved feeding systems and strategies. The speakers include animal scientists, dairy scientists, agricultural engineers, a veterinarian, an agronomist, cooperative extension specialists, industry representatives, and two dairy management consultants. All registered participants will receive a copy of the proceedings at the symposium, including all papers presented.

The symposium is organized into seven sessions. The first, under the heading "Considerations in Feeding Systems," covers such topics as the effect on a farm's feeding system of increased milk production per cow and the significance of forage particle length in dairy rations. In the session entitled "System Management," speakers will discuss silo management, hay and silage preservation, and troubleshooting feeding systems. One speaker will present the findings of a recent study of how feed dollars are spent on 28 dairy farms.

Other sessions will focus on delivery systems, ways to encourage good feed intake, pasturing in the feeding program, feeding automation, and feed choices. The latter session reviews options for nontraditional feeds such as food processing wastes. In addition to the seven sessions, a special feature of the Dairy Feeding Systems symposium is a panel discussion which will bring together a number of dairy farmers who can provide "An Operator's Viewpoint on Feeding Systems." Each session, as well as the panel discussion, will be followed by a discussion period during which the audience will be invited to ask questions of the speakers and comment on the presentations.

The Dairy Feeding Systems symposium will contribute to the work of all those interested in improving dairy farm profitability. Dairymen, farm advisers, manufacturers of feeding equipment, feed suppliers, farm builders, herd health practitioners, agricultural lenders, and others concerned with the production, storage, handling, formation, and delivery of feed for dairy cattle are encouraged to take part.

The symposium is sponsored by the Northeast Dairy Practices Council (NDPC), the American Society of Agricultural Engineers (ASAE), the American Dairy Science Association (ADSA), and the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service (NRAES).

Dairylea 1989 Annual Meeting Set For October

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Dairylea Cooperative Inc., will hold its 1989 annual meeting at the Liverpool Sheraton Inn on October 10 and 11, according to the cooperative president Clyde Rutherford. Rutherford is a dairy farmer from Otego, NY.

Dairylea is one of the largest dairy cooperatives in the Northeast, with more than 2,100 members in six states. An additional 2,000 farms belong to the 13 other cooperatives affiliated with Dairylea for service, Rutherford noted. The co-op markets more than two billion pounds of farm milk per year (about one billion quarts in consumer terms).

Congressman James Walsh, a member of the House Agriculture Committee, will address delegates on Tuesday afternoon. James (Tom) P. Camerlo, Jr., president of National Milk Producers Federation will also speak at the opening session.

President Rutherford will make his annual report on Wednesday morning during the co-op's business session.

Among the delegates and associate delegates elected from this area are: Chief Executive Officer Richard P. Smith and a management team will report to the delegate body at the opening session Tuesday afternoon. Delegates will vote on policy matters at the final session Wednesday afternoon.

About 800 members and guests are expected to attend the meeting.

Milestone Golden Quick Star. Myers selected her on her length, sharpness in shoulders and the high, wide rear udder attachment giving her the distinction of best udder in the class.

Hillacres Silver B Faith claimed the junior championship for Arrowsmith. This senior calf was the most complete heifer in the class, according to Myers, but Faith was followed very closely by Steven Wagner's second-placed senior calf. Wagner's Valley-U Squire Monica kept Arrowsmith from making a sweep of the Jersey championships. Monica captured the reserve junior title of the show.

Tom Arrowsmith took the premier breeder and premier exhibitor awards for the Jersey show.

BROWN SWISS

Tom and Joy Crothers of Brown Switch Swiss, located just across the Pennsylvania line in Maryland won the grand championship title with their senior 2-year-old. Myers admired the long, trim, outstanding body and the tremendous length of body on the winner, Brown Switch J D Turkey Dee. Sire was Johann Johnny D. Breeder was Tom and Joy Crothers.

Bob and Joyce Wagner of Quarryville took the reserve grand with the second-placed 2-year-old, Bo Joy Jubiliation Tammy. Tammy took best udder in the class over the grand champion with a definite advantage in height and width of rear udder.

Steven Wagner took the grand championship in the junior division with his 4-year-old, Marty L. Toto, a tremendously bodied cow with a lot of style. Reserve grand in the junior division went to Scott Wagner's junior yearling, the junior champion of the show, F. S. Titan Elizabeth. Myers described Elizabeth as "style on the move".

Scott Wagner also had the reserve junior champion of the show, W. A. Erin Sim Eve. This junior calf took the distinction with her openness, angularity and tremendous growth for a junir calf.

GUERNSEY

Steven Wagner swept the championships in the Guernsey show. Winning the grand title was Wagner's junior yearling, Bo Joy Fayetta Madonna. Madonna was sired by Dutch Mill Telestars Fayette. Wagner was also the breeder on this grand champion making it a special honor for the owner.

"I absolutely love the dairyness of this junior yearling," said Myers. "She's angular and has many of the qualities we like to see. I like the definite breed character she shows about the head and neck."

The junior yearling also earned Wagner the grand title in the junior division. Reserve grand went to Wagner's second-placed junior yearling, Willows Hallmark Priscilla.

Joy Crothers (right) of Brown Switch Swiss captured the grand championship in the Solanco Fair Brown Swiss Show. Bob Wagner (left) took the reserve grand title.

S.M. Company Offers New Two-Hole Waterer

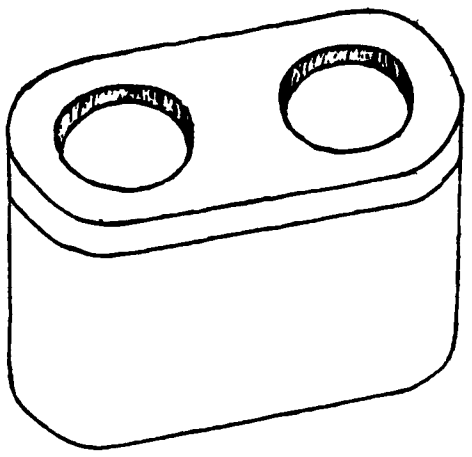
NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — S.M. Company has introduced a new two-hole waterer that features a drinking baffle and free-floating insulated therma-caps that keep cold out in freezing weather and warmth out during summer.

The waterer holds 14 gallons with water supplied through a plastic ¾ -inch water valve that works with pressure or gravity flow. There also is a ¾ -inch plastic shut-off valve at the drinker. Rounded corners eliminate injury to animals, and the drinker is easy for calves to use as well as larger animals.

The lid is designed without a groove around the top that could fill with dirt and has a closed-cell foam gasket.

The drinker measures 34¾ x19½ x19 inches, and can accomodate up to 60 head of dairy cattle, 150 head of beef cattle, 50 horses, or 300 sheep.

For more information, contact S.M. Company, Sheep Hill Road, Box 261, R.D. 2, New Holland, PA 17557.



One of the easiest drinkers on the market for small calves, sheep, etc., as well as all big animals to drink from.

From Poncho To Wedding Gown, The Ultimate Sewing Project

Homestead Notes

BY CAROLYN HILSDON GILLES
Crawford Co. Correspondent

CONNEAUT LAKE (Crawford Co.)— Christianne Brown, daughter of Ann and Frederick Brown of Conneaut Lake, has lived in the same house since she was born. On those three acres, she grew flowers and vegetables and raised dairy goats. On July 22, she married Eric Gierloff, son of a Navy man who "lived all over."

As she walked down the aisle in a wedding dress that she designed and sewed herself, there were no prouder people in the church than two of her former 4-H sewing project leaders.

Christi joined the Curry Heights 4-H Club in 1975 on her ninth birthday. Her first sewing project was a gathered skirt and poncho. Christi had built up a fear of the sewing machine. She was terrified that it would sew over her fingers. Her mom, determined to help her overcome her fear, made her practice sewing on strips of material to get acclimated to the machine before joining a 4-H club to take some sewing projects.

Christi remembers being "really shy... always sitting in the back of the room behind everybody" at her first 4-H meetings. But her fellow club members were friendly and she began to overcome her shyness. Everyone in the club had to do a "Show and Tell" each year and this helped Christi to gain confidence through public speaking. She recalls her first demonstration: most of the kids in her club made cookies but she wanted to do something really different. She found a recipe in a magazine for "Chocolate Covered Worms," a concoction of Chinese noodles covered with chocolate. Said Christi, "That got a rise from the club." Another time she recalls making an Amish recipe called "Bushel Cookies" which, true to their name, filled every bowl and pan in the house.

Christi's mother, Ann, started helping with the 4-H club the summer her daughter joined. In 1975, Christi, in addition to her sewing project, did a 4-H flower project, and, in 1978, went into a vegetable project. Christi and her mother laugh as they recall how closely Christi went "by the book" and made her dad plow the garden area to the exact square feet specified in the project book so she could have her very own vegetable garden and a separate garden for flowers.

Starting in 1977, Christi's 4-H leader felt that she was mature enough to be a teen leader and she took on the responsibility of teaching the younger members to sew on buttons.

At one time Christi thought she wanted to go to college to be a veterinarian, so she used 4-H to explore that as a career choice. In 1980, she joined the "Just Kiddin'" 4-H Club and did a Veterinary Science project. When her goat was old enough to give milk, Christi took on a self-determined project on cooking with goat's milk. Christi planned to do her demonstration that year on making goat milk fudge. Said Christi, "I worked for a week making posters for this thing. Then the day of the demonstration came. I was home alone at the time; I carefully measured everything, used a candy thermometer and everything. When I went to beat the fudge, it had hardened and the thermometer was stuck in the fudge."

Her mom, convinced that Christi must have mismeasured something, carefully watched her redo the recipe, only to have the same thing happen again. Undaunted, Christi just chipped the big hunks out of the pan to have something to show and went on with the demonstration. When club members insisted on tasting the "fudge," Christi warned them that it was "more like hard candy." Christi and her mom recall that it took days of soaking to get the fudge out of those pans. For her "goat milk fudge" entry in the fair that year, Christi had much better luck using the fudge recipe on the can of Hershey chocolate and just substituting goat's milk for regular.

Christi's 4-H club won a contest at Roundup for the club whose members had the most projects. It's plain to see that Christi must have played a key role in that victory. With Christi, one project just led to another. She joined the Vegetable Judging Team for State Days in 1981, earning high individual score in 1984. While learning to judge vegetables, she became interested in insects and the county extension agent told her about the entomology project. From 1981 to 1986, she included entomology projects in her 4-H work. She started her insect collection in a cigar box and ended with two display cases. Her demonstration in 1983 was entitled "What's Bugging You?" and included instructions on how to catch and display an insect collection. To illustrate how to mount insects, Christi made larger paper insect models and used nails for pins. The demonstration won her the first place medal at State Days for miscellaneous demonstrations. It was her entomology project that took her all the way to Chicago National 4-H Congress. Christi remembers going to the national event as a "scary experience" but also a "neat experience... like a convention." There were workshops, exciting speakers and dinners put on by corporate project sponsors. Christi was awarded a $75 savings bond by the Mobay Corporation which sponsored the entomology project. The 4-H'ers that placed first in their regions were in competition for scholarships, but for most others, the event was noncompetitive, an ultimate 4-H experience. She won the trip by placing first in the state; local funds helped with her expenses. Christi showed slides of her experiences in Chicago at county roundup to encourage other 4-H'ers to set their sights on qualifying for the National 4-H honor.

The journey to Chicago had begun when Christi first joined 4-H. Her leader encouraged all club members to fill out "blue forms" and keep them up to date from year to year. Christi entered a "blue form" into state competition every year from the time she was eligible but never was selected. She said, "I was really getting discouraged; I almost lost hope." But in 1984, she was called to Penn State for an interview by the committee. She remembers being sick that day, but pushing herself to go through the interview. County extension agents made a conference call to tell her the good news that she made it; in her last year in 4-H, she was selected to represent PA at the National Congress in Chicago.

In 1983, Christi also participated in 4-H Citizenship Washington Focus where approximately 80 4-H'ers from seven states met to tour the Capitol and participate in workshops where they enacted decision making situations in government. She felt it was beneficial -- in a way, a better learning experience than Chicago due to the hands-on involvement.

After graduating from Conneaut Lake High School, Christi went to Gannon University in Erie and, in 1988, earned a degree in psychology. Although she never advertised, work spread on campus of her sewing skills and she was always able to earn extra money by making clothes. A coworker wanted a special dress made like a favorite dress that fit her well. Christi was able to disassemble the lady's favorite dress, make a pattern and then reassemble the dress. A secretary had Christi make her eight outfits. She also has a lot of experience in making pattern alterations. One of her fellow students needed a gown to wear to a fraternity ball. She saw one that she liked for $96 in a department store but didn't like the color. Christi looked over the dress, took a few measurements and, using a picture in a magazine as a guide, made a pattern out of newsprint and produced a reasonable facsimile for $20 in materials.

Christi met her future husband, Eric Gierloff, at a Gannon fraternity party. She was a homecoming candidate and he volunteered to be her escort. She started going to his hockey games and they began to see each other regularly. Eric left his studies to play Jr. C. Hockey in Canada but subsequently came back to Erie to work for Thom McAn Shoes. After earning her bachelor's degree, Christi started working on her MPA (master's in Public Administration) and applied for a transfer to Penn State Capitol Campus in Harrisburg with an eye to getting a good internship in state government. Once accepted, she and Eric decided to marry and move to Harrisburg together, he transferring to a job in that area with Thom McAn.

Christi immediately began to make plans to realize a girlhood dream to make her own wedding gown. She was inspired by a former member of her 4-H club who made all the dresses in her wedding party. Christi's school and work schedule made it impossible for her to make her bridesmaids' dresses but she was able to enlist the help of a fantastic seamstress that, said Christi, "Can make a dress from looking at a picture." That took care of dresses for members of the wedding party, including mother-of-the-bride. Christi concentrated her efforts on the bridal dress.

In May, she found a dress she liked that cost $1,000. No way was she going to pay that. Using two basic patterns and trim ideas from a picture in a magazine, Christi set to work. She used French seaming on bridal satin material so the fabric wouldn't ravel or fray. Trims and appliques were made from strips of four different kinds of lace and secured with white Elmer's glue (Christi found that fabric glue turned the satin yellow when it dried) and a long basting stitch. Bead work was done by hand. The neckline was trimmed with a long strip of lace. The flowers lining the chif-

Inspired by an older 4-H'er, Christi Brown always planned to make her own wedding gown. Her creation of bridal satin with fitted bodice detailed with pearls and lace appliques was the answer to her childhood dreams when she married Eric Gierloff.

The Long Green Line™

JOHN DEERE

Nothing runs like a Deere™

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

The top rail of the metal gate felt cool, as I leaned against it. Its sturdy presence formed a barrier between dark and light, warmth and coolness.

To my back was the cow-scented warmth of the dairy barn, and the rythmic pumping of the milkers as they provided relief from full udders to the last cows of the evening milking. In the cool, shadowy darkness that stretched beyond the gate in front of me, yearling heifers leisurely munch at hay or slowly plodded toward the bunk feeder for a taste of silage.

A glance overhead showed a slight break in the heavy cloud cover which hung overhead, a lighter spot to the northwest, just beginning to slide through the skies over the roof of the machine shop. Sure enough, there were the signs of clearing, of rain.

This welcomed moisture would soften the ground for fall tillage and grain seeding, would lend a booster shot of moisture to ripening soybeans and hasten the greening of the final cutting of alfalfa. Now, the thinning of the cloud cover foretold a change back to sunshine.

Leaning on the back gate, studying the sky while waiting for those last cows to milk out, is something we seem to do routinely. In fact, every time farmers step outside, our heads just automatically tilt backward to check the signs to be read in the cloud cover.

Remember finding "shapes" in the clouds when you were a kid? What I insisted looked like a mushroom someone else would see as an army tank. Or what one of them figured looked like a cat, to me resembled a house with a smoking chimney. It made for some great sibling arguments.

Since our livelihood depends heavily on whatever kinds of clouds come trucking over the horizon, I view them much more seriously than as a child.

My favorites are those fat, puffy jobs that slowly meander along a clear, brilliant blue sky. Maybe it's because they look like luscious mounds of whipped cream. Or maybe it's because those generally float by on airy, comfortable days, with sunshine interrupted only by occasional passing shadows of the cloud puffs. Good corn-growing, hay-making, garden-ripening days.

More abundant this season have been those flat, gray, thick layers of cloud cover, stretching from horizon to horizon. Their brooding heaviness seems to hover just above the tops of the trees, almost within touching distance from the top of the tallest silo.

Wispy "mare's tails," which I recall from ninth grade science are super high in the heavens and formed from ice crystals, usually telltale a change in the barometric pressure. Though generally seen against clear blue skies, we know to usually expect less favorable weather within a few days.

Cloud colors especially fascinate me. Early morning clouds are often a deep shade of purple, then turn to gold as the sun eases up over the eastern horizon. Some of the more memorable sunsets color clouds orange and vermillion, or shade them with soft pastels of delicate pinks and baby blues.

Storm clouds, though, are the most dramatic, almost theatrical productions choreographed across the heavens. It was a dramatic and unusual storm cloud that is the most memorable I can recall. On a hot, mid-summer, early evening, during one of the severe drought stretches a few seasons ago, a tremendous "thunder front," thousands of feet high, came stampeding over the woods to the southeast.

A brilliant-white edge curled constantly on the leading edge, angry foam tumbling out onto a stage of the blue sky, spotlighted by the setting sun. Its wake was a heavy, dark steel-gray, emitting noisy rumbles and sparking jagged lighting.

We cheered its procession for many minutes, watching closely as the curling white edged over the farmstead. Surely rain must follow. When directly overhead, the rolling stormcloud suddenly slowed, halted, then began a rapid retreat southward. As nightfall settled, we watched a display of flashing light and reflected cloud color almost like fireworks from chairs on the dry patio. Not a single drop of rain had spattered onto the hard, cracked soil.

It is not uncommon for farmers to suffer with back problems.

I wonder if a perpetual kink in the neck from gazing skyward has anything to do with that?

The Ultimate Sewing Project

fon insert in puffed sleeves were cut from strips of lace and glued and stitched in place. She designed a cathedral train, trimmed with a strip of Alencon lace cutouts, that could be hooked up after the ceremony to form a bustle. Other features of the gown were: a flounce in the back with a bow, a fitted bodice detailed with pearls and lace appliques, a full skirt with a basque waistline, and a back bow with butterfly. Christi made her veil of bridal illusion attached to a tiara decorated with pearls and cloth flowers.

The whole project came in under $200. Not a bad price for a dream come true.

Bucks Countian Wins Bailey Scholarship

A 4-H member for six years, Fisher has served as president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, newsreporter and activities organizer in the Spurs N' Burrs 4-H club. Her 4-H projects have included: citizenship, photography, veterinary science, horse and health.

She has served her county through the 4-H Development Fund and the Extension Executive Committee and is the president of the 4-H Teen County Council. Her county activities also include participating in Achievement Night, 4-H Camp counseling, officers' training, round-up, teen leader night and horse show.

Fisher, a Keystone winner for horse and leadership, has attended the National Horse Bowl competition and Citizenship Washington Focus. Recently awarded the 1989 State Leadership award, Fisher is eligible to attend the 1989 National 4-H Congress in Chicago in December. She has been active in State Achievement Days, Capital Days, Leadership Congress, Pennsylvania 4-H Week and Horse Bowl.

The Richard A. Bailey 4-H Scholarship award was formed to benefit 4-H youth in Bucks County who have been accepted to a certified institution of higher learning. The scholarship honors Richard Bailey, retired Bucks County extension agent. He and his wife, Anne, reside in Fountainville.

Donations are being accepted to the Scholarship Fund. Anyone wishing to contribute may contact the Bucks County Cooperative Extension office at 215/345-3283.

Produce Counters Confirm Fall Season

Fresh produce counters confirm a feeling as well as a fact -- it's fall. Pumpkins, cranberries, Indian corn and winter squash have arrived. There are better buys in cabbage, cauliflower, celery, carrots, sweet potatoes, onions and local round white potatoes, as well as increasing supplies of apples, grapes and pears. Just as the produce counters change with the season, so will you want to change your family's meals to include some of the fall vegetables.

To add a harvest touch to those fall meals, try the different varieties of squash. Some easy-to-find popular types of squash are green zucchini, white scalloped patty pan, and yellow summer squash. Some of the harder rind, fall types such as the acorn and bell-shaped butternut are beginning to make their appearance. Plan to serve squash often because it can be prepared many different and fascinating ways. Succulent squash can be steamed, boiled or baked and it combines deliciously with other foods.

Grapes rate a spot on your shopping list these days. Early October is when the most varieties are available. Far and away the most important table variety is the light-green, round, Thompson seedless. Two other fall favorites in the white category are large, oval, mild-flavor Almeria's and the elongated Calmeria. The Emperor is the most popular of the red varieties and has a long storage period. The blue-black Ribiers are medium large and mild-flavored. A new variety that has caught the fancy of consumers is a truly seedless grape -- the Flame Tokay. It was just recently developed and production is still limited. No matter which kind you choose, select those with bright, plump, fresh looking berries firmly attached to the stem.

Another fruit we tend to associate with fall is the pear, although the California Bartlett has been around since midsummer. Now we're beginning to see some of the other varieties that will be with us through the winter, such as Anjou, Bosc, Seckel, and possibly some local varieties.

Ripe, ready-to-eat pears are not commonly sold in most of our grocery stores. Unlike most other fruit, if allowed to ripen on the trees, pears would be grainy and mushy and wouldn't hold up in shipment. They are picked at a firm mature stage so they can be sent all over the country.

To ripen pears, place them in a paper bag or a fruit ripening bowl at room temperature. Because pears give off ethylene gas, a natural ripening substance, keeping this gas enclosed enhances ripening. Some varieties change color from green to yellow, but all will become slightly soft. At this stage, they're ready to eat or they may be stored for a few more days in the refrigerator.

Some people wonder why so many bananas in the market are green. Again, if bananas were allowed to ripen on the plant, they would split open and become tasteless. Therefore, they are cut while still green, shipped under carefully controlled temperatures and then ripened in specially designed ripening rooms. At home, you can finish the ripening process by keeping them at room temperature. If you aren't ready to use the bananas when they are ripe, put them in the refrigerator. The skin will darken but it doesn't affect the eating quality.

Nutrition Advisor Learns About Monkey Stew

BY LOU ANN GOOD

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Learning to cook monkey stew is not part of Bertha Ford's job description. She is hired to teach low cost, nutritious cooking to disadvantaged, young homemakers.

But recently, Bertha experienced one of her most memorable events in her nine years of working through the EFNEP program. While she taught a Korean war veteran how to cook a nutritious meal, he explained how to cook monkey stew over an open fire.

The client, Robert Pfautz of Epharata, had served as a sergeant in the U.S. Army. After years of hospitalization, Pfautz was released and Bert was assigned to teach him to plan, shop, and cook nutritious meals on a limited budget.

Bert recalls some trepidation at being assigned a client who suffered flashbacks from the war. She was warned to "weigh her words," to avoid causing a flashback.

"But," Bert said, "things worked out really well." Bob or the "Old Sarge" as he preferred to be called was a quick learner who enjoyed sharing his war experiences while experiementing with cooking.

One time, both teacher and student became so engrossed in conversing that they forgot to turn on the oven to bake a casserole.

To begin the program, clients like Bob are asked to complete a questionaire. This enables nutrition education advisors to discern which lessons are needed.

"Bob could cook," Bert explained. "But he needed help in planning nutritious, well-balanced meals on a restrictive budget."

To receive his certificate, Bob completed eight two-hour sessions biweekly. Some clients, depending on their needs require more sessions. At the conclusion of their sessions, clients complete a post survey. They need to answer correctly at least 80 percent of the questions to receive certification.

Bert will check in on the Pfautz family from time to time and since they do not have a car, she will continue to take Bob's teenage son grocery shopping.

Pfautz, who lives with two teenage sons, expressed gratitude for Bert's assistance in helping him adjust to everyday living. He jokes as he points at Bert, "Now I'm a better cook than she is."

The program is called EFNEP for Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program. It has been in existence for 20 years, but is becoming better known in the last few years. Funded by the United States Department of Agriculture and administered by the prespective land grant colleges or university Cooperative Extension Services, in each state across the nation; EFNEP primarily reaches disadvantaged young home makers with small children.

"But," Bert said, "we do not turn anyone down. All referrals are checked out and adapted to the needs of each particular client."

Currently, Doris Thomas, Lancaster extension home economist, oversees five advisors in the county plus advisors in Chester and York counties. Call (717) 394-6851 to refer prospective clients.

Robert Pfautz didn't need a certificate to prove he could cook monkey stew, but he did need one to show he learned to cook low-cost, nutritious meals through EFNEP. The series of lessons was taught by Bertha Ford, nutrition education advisor for the program funded by the Department of Agriculture.

Safe Kids Are No Accident

Farming is dangerous. More people are killed and injured in farming than any other business. But you can help change that.

Marilyn Adams founded an organization called "Farm Safety For Just Kids."

Her 11-year-old son died when he suffocated in a gravity flow wagon. He did not know it was dangerous.

Through this organization, Marilyn wants to make sure children know how to live safety on the farm.

Members of the organization receive a copy of the Farm Safety for "Just Kids" newsletter on a regular basis. This keeps them up to date on current events in the safety areas.

Below are some pictures and puzzles from the organizations coloring book.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

I've always said that September is the busiest month and this one is proving to be just that. As though I wasn't busy enough with canning and freezing, all of the organizations that we are active in also start in September.

The peaches, pears and plums have already been canned. But, there are still more tomatoes to do despite already doing fifty quarts. And, the sweet corn takes a lot of time to husk, blanch and cut off of the cob for freezing. As a lot of ours never came up, we've had to purchase some from a neighbor. My green beans have never stopped bearing and I pick some every other day since the end of June and now am approaching seventy quart in the freezer.

Throw in with this work a different kind of duty like teaching a Bible Study group and you see why I'm busy this month. First I go to a class that gives pointers on teaching in an interesting manner and then I go home and prepare to teach a study of I Peter.

There is also a social group at our church that started meeting last week. I was informed that I was to handle the refreshments for 40 people. It was a "make your own sundae" type of spread. The evening before the gathering, I got a phone call telling me that 60 people were expected — so back to the store for more ice cream and toppings plus iced tea mix.

Our square dance group starts their fall season the end of this month. They'll start off on a different note by performing for a small convention. I'm not too anxious for this meeting as I know how easy it is to foul-up when putting on a demonstration. Guess we'll just do the best that we can after a summer away from dancing.

Now I must hurry and type this before our mailman comes to pick up the mail.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Microwaving is known as a low-fat way of cooking. However, micro-baked foods can still contain large amounts of cholesterol. Here are some ways to lower the cholesterol in quick breads and desserts.

Choose recipes that call for salad or cooking oil. Read labels on oil bottles carefully. Choose oils that contain unsaturated fats, like soy and corn oils, which tend to reduce blood cholesterol levels.

Try substituting 2 egg whites for each egg called for.

Increase the amount of fiber in recipes. Fiber has been shown to lower blood cholesterol. Try substituting oat flour for up to one-third of all-purpose flour. (Make oat flour by grinding uncooked oatmeal with a food processor or blender). Or substitute whole wheat flour for up to one-half of all-purpose flour. This not only adds fiber, but gives an attractive brownish color to micro-baked foods. In most recipes, you could add a couple of tablespoons of wheat germ or oat bran. Before micro-baking, sprinkle wheat germ or whole bran cereal on top of breads or desserts for extra fiber and color.

Add flavoring, such as vanilla, to muffins. Increase amounts of spices or add cinnamon and other spices to desserts.

Substitute skim milk for whole milk, or low-fat yogurt for dairy sour cream. If sour milk is called for, buttermilk may be substituted, or soured skim milk may be used. Reconstituted non-fat dry milk may be used instead of skim milk.

Low Cholesterol Carrot Bran Muffins (below) is a favorite of mine from my cookbook, "Microwave Family Favorites." This recipe was easy to adapt because it already called for oil. I changed whole milk to skim and used 2 egg whites instead of 1 egg. Results were perfect.

The fruit dessert was adapted from a microwave recipe by Dow Chemical Company, makers of Saran Wrap™. It called for margarine already. For low saturated fat, be sure to use an all-vegetable margarine — one in which liquid soybean or corn oil is the first ingredient. For good baked texture, use solid (stick) margarine, rather than whipped (tub) margarine. The original recipe called for 1 large egg. I substituted 2 medium egg whites. I added more fiber by using whole wheat flour for half the all-purpose flour called for, and by adding oat bran. I also used the fruit unpeeled — a trick that not only adds more fiber, but also makes preparation easier.

Low Cholesterol Carrot Bran Muffins

1 cup whole wheat flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ cup raisins (optional)
¾ cup soured skim milk*
1½ cups whole bran cereal
⅓ cup honey
¼ cup vegetable oil
2 egg whites, beaten
½ cup finely-grated carrots
Topping: wheat germ (optional)

On waxed paper or in a small mixing bowl, combine whole wheat flour, baking soda, baking powder and raisins; mix well and set aside.

Pour soured skim milk over bran cereal in large mixing bowl. Let stand 3 to 5 minutes to soften cereal. Stir in honey, oil, egg whites and carrots; mix until ingredients are just combined. Batter will be thick.

Prepare microwave muffin cups by lining each with a paper baking cup. Fill each about ⅔ full. Sprinkle muffin tops with wheat germ, if desired. For 6 muffins: microwave (High) 1½ to 2¼ minutes, rotating ½ turn if necessary after 1 minute. Cool about 2 minutes before removing from cups. Repeat with remaining batter. Serve warm or cool. Makes about 18 muffins.

* To make soured skim milk: Pour ¾ teaspoon of white vinegar or lemon juice into a measure. Add milk to the ¾ -cup line.

Each muffin: 87 calories, 2g protein, 3g fat, 14g carbohydrate, 84mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

Upside-Down Pear Tart

½ cup all-purpose flour
½ cup whole wheat flour
⅓ cup packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons oat bran
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅓ cup margarine, cut into pieces
2 medium egg whites, beaten
4 cups sliced, unpeeled, fully ripe pears or sweet apples
¼ cup frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed

In mixing bowl, combine dry ingredients, mix well. Cut in margarine until mixture is crumbly. Add egg whites and mix with a fork until moistened and a dough forms. Wrap dough in plastic wrap and refrigerate until ready to use.

Stir together sliced fruit and orange juice concentrate in a microwave-safe, deep 9-inch pie plate. Cover with plastic wrap, venting one corner. Microwave (High) 3 to 4 minutes, stirring halfway through cooking, or until fruit is almost tender. Set aside to cool.

Roll chilled dough out between 2 floured sheets of waxed paper. Remove top sheet and invert dough over cooked and cooled fruit. Remove remaining waxed paper. Trim away excess dough. Crimp edges along inside rim of pie plate. Microwave (High) 6 to 8 minutes, rotating plate once after 4 minutes, until pastry no longer looks moist and is dry to the touch. Cool to room temperature.

Each serving: 228 calories, 3g protein, 9g fat, 36g carbohydrate, 109mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

Call or write for cholesterol information—

This information has nothing to do with microwaving techniques. But it's valuable because it gives you the facts about cholesterol so you can cook and eat the heart-healthy way.

In September — National Cholesterol Education Month — Mazola F.A.C.T.S. (Fat and Cholesterol Tips Service) is offering a toll-free number for the latest information on reducing cholesterol levels. The number to call is 1-800-662-FACT 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. (EDT).

Registered dieticians and nutrition professionals will answer your questions. You may want to know how to cook and eat healthier meals, how to tell differences in fats, what information to look for on labels, or what are desirable cholesterol levels. Any question related to heart health is welcome.

Any time of year, you may write to the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute for the following free booklets. Send your name, address, zip code and booklet title to: NHLBI Publications, Information Center, 4733 Bethesda Ave., Suite 530, Bethesda, MD 20814.

Doctors To Receive Information On Pork "Prescriptions"

DES MOINES, IA — Family doctors may soon hand out positive information about pork along with prescriptions thanks to pork checkoff programs.

Using checkoff funds administered by the National Pork Board, the National Live Stock and Meat Board is developing a set of materials that family doctors and internists can provide to patients. The printed information explains how pork fits into a healthy diet. Similar materials are being distributed to medical students to give them an accurate description of pork for use when they start their practices.

These types of efforts are paying off by improving the medical industry's opinion of pork. A recent survey of dieticians showed that 33 percent had a more positive attitude toward pork than they did two years ago before hearing the updated information on pork. Only 6 percent of the surveyed dieticians viewed pork less favorably.

"It's exciting to see that health care professionals are recognizing the whole pork industry's efforts to produce leaner pork," said Tim Downey, vice president for pork and processed meats at the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

The programs geared to educate the medical industry were funded as part of a $300,000 grant of checkoff funds to the National Live Stock and Meat Board. The National Pork Board administered the entire grant to prepare pork educational programs, consumer information, product development and nutrition research in 1989.

Last year, more than 15 million people heard the pork message through such efforts, and even more will be reached by the end of 1989.

Along with the medical information, the grant is providing for educational programs to reach junior high and high school home economics students. The National Live Stock and Meat Board is developing a video and printed information that home economics classes can study to learn about pork nutrition and proper cooking temperatures.

The pork producer checkoff grant is also financing research to stand behind future educational materials. For example, food safety studies will be valuable in finding further ways to prevent listeria in pork.

Meanwhile, nutrition research will sort the facts from fallacy concerning fat in the diet. "We want to know whether the real issue is total calories consumed," Downey said. "Or, should people be more concerned about the percent of calories that come from fat in their meals?"

Back Injuries: Farmers' Most Common Complaint

BY LOU ANN GOOD

CHURCHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Thousands of farmers suffer from equipment injuries, toxic gases, chemical and other work-related illnesses, but perhaps the most common is back injuries.

Shearing 2,000 sheep might be enough to give anyone a backache, but for Amos Stoltzfus of Churchtown, the annual event literally immobilized him.

Amos had been shearing sheep since 14 years of age. He had built up a robust business and after marrying Rowena, sheep shearing became a family affair.

Amos taught school by day and in the evenings and on Saturdays, he sheared sheep while Rowena trimmed hooves and put the wool away. Later their twin sons accompanied them on the April through July sheep shearing excursions.

"Our whole family enjoyed it," Amos said, "but the constant bending over irritated his back that had been injured in childhood play.

As an 11-year-old, Amos had back surgery to remove his tailbone. Throughout the years, he suffered pain, but learned to live with it until 1986. That was the year, he gave up sheep shearing. "I realized I couldn't do it anymore," he said.

He was hospitalized with severe pain. He couldn't move, walk or get out of bed.

A neurologist found two bulging disks had ruptured. He prescribed total rest, relaxation and physical therapy.

Amos said, "At first the therapy was really painful, but I did simple exercises three times a week for several weeks."

Like many who suffer back pain, Amos tried many things to relieve the pain. But it was the exercises prescribed by the physical therapist that Amos credits for enabling him to live a normal life.

Today, Amos has regained his mobility. He no longer works as a teacher or as a sheep shearer. He is a full time pastor, but he still maintains a flock of sheep. This past spring, he sheared three or four and it didn't irritate his back, but Amos said, "I couldn't trust it for a whole day."

Riding in a car, working in the garden and any up and down motion irritates his weak back.

To allieve the pain, Amos resorts to the exercises given by the physical therapist. He finds walking also helps. "I can tell when I get too busy or am under stress," he said. "It's my body's way of telling me to slow down."

Beth King, the administrator for the Reading-Berks Orthopedic and Sports Physical Therapy through which Amos received help, stressed that beneficial exercises vary from person to person. To receive therapy, patients must receive a prescription from their doctor.

She said, "I grew up in a farming community and I know how stubborn farmers can be when they are hurt."

Many times injuries heal with little or no physical therapy, but sometimes, the injury smolders and erupts in a full-fledged disability. Beth maintains that conditioning exercises, training in proper body movements, and active stretching and flexibility can greatly help injured farmers.

This week, September 17 to 23, was proclaimed National Farm Safety Week by President George Bush. The National Safety Council urges farming families to make safety and health a continuing priority in their operations.

To promote farm safety, write to the National Safety Council, 444 N. Michingan Ave., Chicago, IL 60611, for pamplets on "Facts About Backs" and other farm safety resources.

Sheep shearing aggravated a back injury for Amos Stoltzfus of Churchtown. Rehabilitation therapy enabled Stoltzfus to live a more pain-free life, but he had to give up shearing 2,000 sheep a year. Nevertheless, he does maintain a small flock of his own. He is shown with his wife, Rowena, and six-year-old twin sons, Adrian and Arlen (right).

Nate Stoltzfus said, "You don't realize how much you like something until it is taken away from you."

Nate had to sell his cow herd, that had taken 20 years to built up, in order to recuperate from a back injury. Nate kept his young stock to preserve the blood lines and plans to reenter the dairy business next year.

Back Injury Forces Farmer To Sell Herd

BY LOU ANN GOOD

HONEY BROOK (Chester Co.) — Twenty-seven-year-old Nathan Stoltzfus owns a beautiful 75-acre farm in Chester County. The young, ambitious farmer with a passion for farming, faced a bitter task when he needed to disperse of his milking herd this past April.

"I was never sick a day in my life," Nathan recalls. "But two years ago when I reached down to close a silo door, I felt something pop in my back."

Typical of the industrious farmer, Nate ignored the persistent pain, thinking it would eventually disappear. It didn't. He forced himself to follow the usual spring task of preparing the ground for planting by picking up the rocks. After two or three days, he could barely walk, he couldn't straighten up, neither could he sit at the table to eat.

Independent guy that he is, Nate still thought the symptoms would disappear, but when he noticed that his one leg started to look withered, he got alarmed.

In desperation, Nathan called a neurosurgeon. He needed to wait a month for an appointment.

In the meantime, Nathan's pain became so severe, he tried everything people suggested to him. "Hey," he said, "I even went to a few quack doctors. When you're in pain, you're willing to try anything."

Medical doctors and the "quacks" agreed. Nate was suffering from a herniated disk.

"What caused it? How did I get this way?" Nate kept asking.

Doctors offered a variety of opinions. Some thought the danger happened during childhood when he carried heavy milk pails, which caused his spine to curve. His body tried to compensate for the curve and eventually the muscles that cushion the spine swelled and pinched the nerves on either side.

A herniated disk is a common ailment among farmers who lift heavy objects and among those heavily involved in sports.

"I should have gone to the doctor as soon as I started having trouble," Nate said. "It would have saved me a lot of trouble."

Doctors prescribed bedrest and ordered him not to lift more than 15 pounds for six weeks.

Nate shrugged. "What can a farmer do? Someone has to milk the cows."

So Nate kept trying to do the work. He'd do the morning milking. Then lay down for an hour. He'd do a few necessary chores, then rest again, but by the time the evening milking was finished, Nate would collapse in exhaustion.

"For six months I slept on the floor with my feet propped up trying to find a comfortable position Nate recalls.

Friends helped with the field work and with milking. His mother, who hadn't helped in the barn for many years, helped daily with the milking.

The pain was excruciating. Nate lost 25 pounds.

When his hired help quit, Nate faced the decision he dreaded—sell his cows.

Doctors kept telling him the worst thing for his back was bending up and down.

"When you milk cows, you're always up and down," Nate contended. "But I didn't want to sell the cows. My dad and I had built up the herd to a 21,000 rolling herd average. We raised our own stock—hadn't bought a cow in 20 years."

To sell the cows meant throwing away decades of labor.

"They (medical researchers) say," Nate remarks, "Back problems are brought on by stress. Well, it could be...."

Nate's father died three years ago of leukemia. His 18-year-old brother died 11 months later from Hodgkins disease.

Nate recalls, "I had always loved farming. But when they died, it sort of took the fun out of it. Half the fun is having someone to plan and talk with you about farming."

He added, "It's a lonely life when you farm on your own. You're tied down to the work. You can't get away, but you have no one to talk with."

In addition to loneliness, Nate was doing work that all three had done previously. When it came to lifting heavy, Nate did it alone.

Although back surgery is sometimes performed to correct a herniated disk, doctors did not want to operate since the risk is higher.

Bed rest, doctors agreed, is the best thing to treat back injuries.

Nate, tired of trying to work and not feeling well, sold his cows at an April dispersal sale. He kept his young stock in hopes that he can return to milking next year.

In the meantime, there have been a lot of changes in Nate's life. He said, "I learned to lift more carefully. Before I'd just move something. Now I kneel in front of the object and lift with my legs."

He does prescribed exercises every other day.

But the most important change

'Tis The Season For Pot Pie Making

BY LOU ANN GOOD

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — For the Society of Farm Women #3, September is no time to sit back and enjoy the autumn weather.

The season ushers in an annual whirlwind of cooking, baking and good times.

It's Ephrata Fair time. And for Esther Stuber and her fellow members, that means pot pie making and preparing a host of other home cooked favorites.

With 100 pounds of flour, 21 dozen eggs and 32 cups of water, the members and their spouses mix, roll, iron and cut the pop pie in preparation for the fair scheduled September 26 through 30.

Iron pot pie?

"Yes," Esther Stuber answers. "It dries out the dough and allows us to finish the job faster."

Ironing is no drudgery for these busy women. While the flour dust flies, the electric mixer whirls, and the iron heats, the busy group reminisce over farm show memories.

"I remember when my mother took me along when I was just a kid," Esther said.

"Then farm women sold hot dogs, ham salad, chicken salad and deviled clams at their stand."

The small stand had no roof. "When it rained," Esther said, "the cooks grabbed their skillets and ran for cover."

That was in 1922. Esther is now a spry 77 years. She's seen a lot of changes in those intervening years.

Somewhere along the years, the group added a sit-down dining room. In 1951, the group remodeled their stand by putting on a roof, installing a floor and building a new kitchen. To the menu, the group added vegetable soup, oyster stew, beef barbecues and hamburger patties that the women formed themselves.

Business prospered. The stand became known as a place to get a sit down, home-cooked meal. By the mid '50s, entrees of chicken pot pie and other platters were added to the menu. Three years ago the stand called for another major remodeling project. The kitchen is built on a trailer base designed by M.G. Trailers. Two trailers were butted end to end giving 64 feet of space. The kitchen features a large sliding door refrigerator, hot and cold water, a three bottom sink, two gas grills, two gas commercial stoves, an electric steam table and a sandwich maker. With rough siding, cedar shake roof and a white picket fence, the Farm Women's booth commands attention from fair goers.

But it's the aroma and the taste of good home cooking that keeps bring satisfying customers back.

Today in preparation for the upcoming week, the farm women members are cooking 325 pounds of chicken, preparing four bushels cabbage for pepper cabbage, using four bushels of apples for applesauce, opening 1,000 clams for deviled clams, and cooking 100 pounds of turkey to make barbecues.

For those who prefer sandwiches, the Farm Women's Special served with potato chips includes a Kaiser roll stuffed with lettuce, tomato, a Bermuda onion slice, hamburger, fried ham, cheese, and mayonnaise.

Farm women con their husbands into pot pie making in preparation for the Ephrata Fair. Here Harold Stuber mixes the dough.

During this busy time, Esther and fellow members admit that sometimes the house doesn't get dusted.

Esther herself works daily at the stand from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. She said, "There is so much to be done that most elderly people are capable of doing."

She is proud that she never missed a year at the annual fair. In addition to farm women activities, she was director of the Ephrata Fair Association for 35 years. She

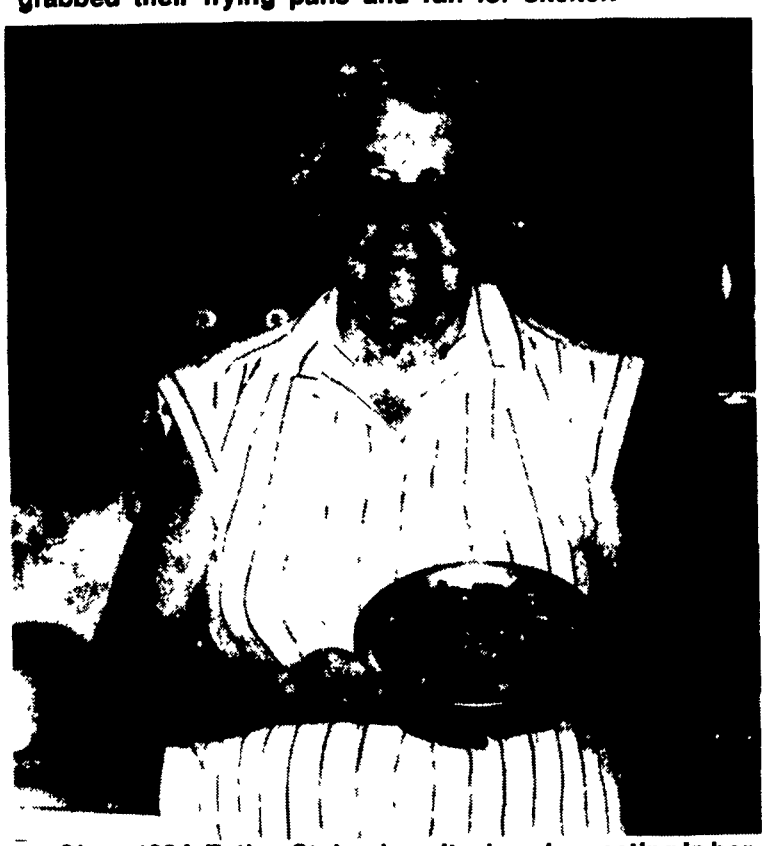
Most people iron clothing, but Ruth Messner and her farm women friends iron pot pie in preparation for the Ephrata Fair.

The Farm Show Society 3 make 21 batches of pot pie, that gets all in one day at the Ephrata Fair. From left: Jeanie, Pauline Angust, Robert Hollinger, Martha Herr, and Alva Weinhold.

Popular demand has made this farm show stand grow and grow. When the Farm Women #3 stand began, the group cooked at a stand with no roof. When it rained, they grabbed their frying pans and ran for shelter.



Since 1924, Esther Stuber hasn't missed a meeting in her Farm Show Society 3. Esther doesn't stick to cooking at the Ephrata Fair, she has won several milking contest awards and this year at the contest's 20th anniversary at the Ephrata Fair, Esther will compete against previous champions.

Beef Industry Goes High Tech

ROME, NY — "The Tutor," an interactive video system, is now being used to help spread the Good News about Beef and Veal to New York State consumers.

The computer based interactive video system was developed as part of a grant by NYBIC to The New York State Association of Agricultural Fairs. Coordinator of the project was Peggy Lipinski, who worked with IEX Communications, Inc. of Frankfort, developer of The Locator travel information systems. The Tutor uses graphic displays on a color screen to highlight the Good News about eating, shopping for and cooking beef, as well as information about veal.

The NYBIC introduced the unit at Empire Farm Days in Seneca Falls, The Erie County Fair in Hamburg and at the Dutchess County Fair at Rhinebeck. It's also playing an integral part in The Quality Meats exhibit at The New York State Fair, in Syracuse. Commenting on the value of the promotion and information tool, Jerry Reed, Executive Director of NYBIC, said, "For years computers have intimidated people, but now they're part of our lives." The bright colors of the display actually attract all ages to the unit. "Once they use the device, they actually find it's fun as well as educational," Reed continued.

The New York Beef Industry Council is a farmer funded not-for-profit agency responsible for promotion, information and research programs on behalf of New York's beef and veal industries. The New York Association of Agricultural Fairs was founded 101 years ago to help improve all agricultural fairs and continue the fair tradition in New York State.

IEX Communications is a Frankfort, New York, firm engaged in the development and marketing of interactive voice and video systems.

Twenty years ago, Esther won the cow milking contest at the fair. Ten years later she was called back to compete against the other winners. She won again. This year, the contest will feature winners from the last 20 years and Esther plans to don her milking costume and show the others that she hasn't lost her touch.

Esther isn't bothering to brush up her milking skills for the Friday night competition; she's too busy with Farm Women duties.

She said, "I grew up with farm women. My mother always took me along. I took my girls with me and today they're active members." Her daughter Florence Vaitl is county president.

Esther said, "Some members wonder why the younger generation isn't getting involved in farm women societies. I tell you if they learned to come when they were small they wouldn't want to miss the fun. Farm women have a lot of fun even if they do work hard."

The stand at the Ephrata Fair is the club's major fundraiser. Esther isn't saying how much they make, but she admits it's thousands of dollars. She said, "That's all we need to do and it enables us to do a lot of good work for the community."

Over the years, the society donated money to furnish two rooms at Ephrata Community Hospital, contributed to Hospice, Ephrata Library, Water Street Mission, and bought a piece of equipment for all hospitals in county. Supported a Honduran girl who studied nursing in order to conduct a clinic in a mountainous area of Honduras. Annually the society takes children swimming from the E. June Smith Center, a school for the handicapped and they contribute food to Alpha Club Party held for the mentally handicapped. This year they purchased a quilt for the Ephrata Community Hospital auxillary's quilt sale.

Esther and her fellow members encourage, "Be sure to stop by the Farm Women's Stand for some good, home cooked meals. Thursday is pot pie day.

Injury Forces

in Nate's life happened on August 26. He got married.

Nate grins sheepishly and relates. "I wanted a wife who liked country living, who liked the farm. 'Course I didn't want just any country bumpkin who'd work in the fields, I wanted someone with some culture and education."

Nate found exactly what he wanted. He said, "Before we got married, I told her everything bad about farming, everything that could go wrong."

He grins victoriously. "She knew all that. She was raised on the farm. And she loves farming as much as I do."

Nate looks down sheepishly, then adds, "She brought the fun back into farming. Being a farmer and being single isn't the best life—you don't have time for social activities. If you want to farm, you should be married."

Last week Nate stacked several thousand bales of hay without any in.

He admits, "My grandpa says it was getting married that made my back better, not rest."

Nate grins and concedes, "Maybe he's right. "I sure thank the good Lord for everything. When I was laid up on my back, I was so discouraged. Now I'm so thankful for my good health. I'm still farming and I sure feel thankful about that. You don't realize how much such things mean until they're taken from you."

Nate looks across the corn fields that surround his farm and nods his head, "Yep, I sure feel like the Lord's been good to me. I feel like I'm blessed."

"One thing I learned. We need people in our lives. When others helped me, I felt so humbled. I can never repay all they did, but some one told me, "Don't worry about repaying us. Just pass it on."

Nate nods and adds, "I intend to do that. I found out I had a lot of good friends. I never could have made it without them."

Three Dairymen Receive Special Awards At Maryland Fair

BY SUE CROW
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, MD — Three Maryland dairymen received special recognition from their peers at the Maryland State Fair last month. Thomas and Bonnie Remsberg of Middletown were given the outstanding junior breeder award, while the outstanding senior breeder award went to Carl and Martha Bender. George Edgerton, long a mainstay in the dairy industry, was awarded the state's distinguished service award.

The Remsbergs are the third generation to farm at Brook Lodge Farm. The opening chapter of Tommy's dairy career began in 1962 when he purchased a calf for $50 from his father. Bonnie became involved in 4-H as an eight-year-old and her projects developed into a small herd.

Tommy has been involved with Brook Lodge full time since his high school graduation. When his grandfather retired in 1974, he became a partner in the family business. He presently owns 50 percent of all cows and equipment as well as half of the farm where he and Bonnie and their two sons live.

Brook Lodge has bred more than 20 Excellent cows and developed at least eight Gold Medal dams. Their dairy cattle have been exported to more than 20 countries. The farm has received the progressive breeders award for 25 years, with 14 of these being awarded since Tommy joined the partnership.

The herd average at Brook Lodge, as of June, 1989, is 20,823 pounds of milk with 756 pounds of fat.

The Elevation Print cow 4E 92 has been the foundation of their most productive cow family. To achieve greater genetic potential from this family and others, they have a strong embryo transfer program in place.

Brook Lodge has been active in showing their animals. One of their show highlights was the Apache Patsy cow that was nominated for All American as a two- and three-year-old.

Carl and Martha Bender received the outstanding senior breeder award at the Maryland State Fair. Maryland Dairy Princess Marcia Summers, left, presents the plaque to the couple, along with their two of their children, Jenell and Kenton.

The Remsbergs have been active in farm organizations, and Tommy is presently president of the Frederick County Holstein Club and a director of the state Holstein association. He is past president of the Frederick-Montgomery DHIA. Bonnie serves as Frederick County editor of the "Southeastern Holstein News."

The Benders

The first farm that Carl and Martha Bender owned was a 123-acre operation with 18-stanchion barn and silo. They remodeled and expanded the farm to a 160-foot stall barn and 125-foot free-stall barn with two silos. Later they purchased a 138-acre farm with facilities for calves, heifers, and dry cows.

The grade herd, which was purchased with the farm, has been replaced during a 14-year period to a completely registerd herd with 75 cows and 91 head of young stock. Type and production have increased from a BAA of 97.3 in 1967 to a BAA of 106.1 in 1989 and a herd average of 15,000 pounds of milk to 21,000 pounds of milk.

George Edgerton was born on a Jersey farm and started milking cows by hand when he was four years old. Later he started showing Guernseys in 4-H. Now, after 49 years of caring for cattle, he has come home to retire in West Virginia.

In his senior year at Morris Central High New York, he won the judging contest held at the State College of Agriculture at Delhi. He had the highest score ever of 870 points out of 1,000 possible. At the New York State Fair, he received the highest award that New York FFA'ers could receive, the Empire Farmers Degree.

Edgerton and his wife, Jean, stayed in New York for several years after their marriage and Edgerton worked for Meridale Farms, Loch Lee Jerseys, and Woodacres Guernseys in New Jersey. Later they moved to North Carolina and worked for Biltmore Jersey.

In 1961 Edgerton became the herdsman for MD-ABC headquarters in Frederick, Md. He was responsible for about 65 bulls and supervised a barn crew. While working there a bull smashed his kneecap. Recovery took more than seven months and doctors were pessimistic on his ever using the knee again. Edgerton proved them wrong.

The next step in Edgerton's career was a move to the Fair Hill Farm to work with their show string. He cared for and milk one barn of 14 cows. Twelve years later the couple moved back to Mathias, W.Va., and the mountains.

Edgerton showed cattle all over the East Coast, and in 1979 he was awarded the prestigious Klussendorf Trophy, a showmanship honor.

Maryland's most distinguished service award went to Jean and George Edgerton, left. The trophy was presented by Helen Remsberg and her son Denny.

Maryland's outstanding junior breeder award went to Thomas and Bonnie Remsberg. Charlotte and Buddy Hill, left, presented the plaque to Tommy, who holds T.J., and Bonnie, who holds Jarrett.

Apple Marketing Committee Recommends Base Prices

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — The American Agricultural Marketing Association (AAMA) Processing Apple Committee has recommended base prices for growers to consider when marketing their apples for processing this fall.

The recommendation by the AAMA, which represents growers in nine states including Pennsylvania, came after recent visits with processors and orchards in North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, New York, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

The committee is recommending the following base prices: $10.50 per hundredweight (cwt.) for U.S. No. 1 Canner Grade Apples, 2½" and up; and $5.75 per cwt. for straight loads of juice apples. The committee also recommended a base price of $13.00 per cwt. for York variety apples, sized 2¼" and up, in four states including Pennsylvania.

The committee's recommendations followed a meeting in Washington, D.C., Aug. 2 and 3 to review state-by-state surveys and examine statistics concerning supply and demand for the 1989 crop. Participating in the meeting on behalf of Pennsylvania apple growers were Harold Hollabaugh of Biglerville, president of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association's (PFA) Apple Marketing Cooperative advisory committee; Phil Pitzer of Aspers, a committee member, and Ken Hopkins, PFA's apple marketing cooperative program director.

The AAMA committee's evaluation of Pennsylvania's crop estimated output at 6 million bushels, well below the U.S. Department of Agriculture's forecast at 9.5 million bu.

PFA Requests Extension Of Add-On Milk Price

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — The Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) requested a one year extension of the $1.05 per hundredweight (cwt.) add-on for Class I milk in testimony before the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB) today in Harrisburg.

The $1.05 cwt. emergency price increase was granted by the PMMB last September to help dairymen cope with soaring purchased feed price increases resulting from last year's drought. In February, 1989, the price relief was extended through the end of August.

During testimony today PFA said that heavy rainfall this year has reduced the quality and quantity of 1989 forages and silage, and has kept purchased feed costs higher than normal.

PFA spokesman Mel Eckhaus, Director of Local Affairs, said, "Although this year's weather conditions are more difficult for the lay person to valuate as being adverse, in fact, this year presents more of an emergency situation than did the period of drought."

PFA's request for a one year extension was supported by testimony from several witnesses. Don Unangst, State Director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, detailed county ASC committee estimates of hay and pasture losses this year. Blair Smith of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service reviewed this growing season's weather and fieldwork progress. Verdean Keyser, director of Sky View forage testing laboratory in Jennertown, Somerset County, said forages tested this year showed about a 25% loss in protein content.

Penn State Professor of Dairy Science Richard Adams said this year's poor feed quality will probably reduce milk production. PFA State Board member and dairyman Karl Kroeck of Knoxville, Tioga County, said rains in his area have prevented many dairymen from planting all or part of their corn crop and have delayed harvesting the first hay crop by six weeks. "Dairymen in my area will lose one whole cutting of quality hay," Kroeck testified, "Regrowth is very slow due to heavy early insect feeding such as weevils and slugs."

Kroeck said dairymen in his area will be forced to make large purchases of grain in order to maintain their current levels of milk production. "I don't see that this situation can change very much for at least another growing season," Kroeck added.

PFA is a voluntary, statewide farm organization representing 22,666 families -- about half of them dairymen -- in 54 county associations.

Pesticide Use Can Be Slashed Without Reducing Crop Yield

MIAMI, FL — Improved crop-management techniques would enable farmers to slash pesticide use by between 35 and 50 percent worldwide without reducing crop yields, a Cornell University professor told a national conference of chemists in Miami on Sept. 15.

Asserting that "there is room for improvement in the judicious use of pesticides," entomologist David Pimental advocated such techniques as crop rotations and using natural enemies to kill pests.

At the American Chemical Society meeting, he said that the 5 billion pounds of pesticides applied to crops worldwide each year not only remain on the crops and in the soil but also pollute water, sometimes harming people, animals and beneficial insects. Each year, there are an estimated 500,000 non-lethal human poisonings from pesticides worldwide -- either during crop application or consumption of foods -- and about 10,000 deaths, Pimental reported.

He noted that Sweden and Denmark are aiming at a 50 percent reduction in pesticide use as a national policy and the Netherlands is about to follow.

Pimental, who specializes in the relationship between insect control and the environment, also stressed in an interview before the Miami meeting that, although pesticide use has increased more than 30-fold since 1945, crop losses also are growing, with as much as half the world's potential food supply being lost to pests such as insects, plant diseases and weeds. Farmers now lose 35 percent of their potential harvest to pests, and an additional 20 percent of the remaining harvest is lost to pests during the storage and distribution process before food reaches the table. His analysis is based on figures on world food supplies compiled by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and others.

"It's true, the plant pests are becoming tougher; 450 species of insects have evolved resistance to our insecticides, and weeds and plant pathogens have developed resistance, too," Pimental said. "But the real reason for the rise in crop losses is the change in agricultural technology that encourages pest outbreaks."

The entomologist cited as one example a change in corn-growing practice in the United States that has turned corn fields into a heaven on Earth for insects. "American farmers used to practice "corn rotation' by alternating, every other year, with some crop such as soybeans," Pimental recalled.

At the same time, many U.S. farmers began practicing "no-till" agriculture, rather than completely plowing fields between each crop, Pimental said. That was to reduce erosion and save time. The combination of corn year after year in the same fields and undisturbed soils fostered the so-called corn rootworm complex and other pests. Corn rootworms live from one season to the next in the soil, eating plant roots and destroying crops.

"Replacing corn rotations with continuous corn culture and no-till has increased U.S. insecticide use in corn more than a thousand-fold. Corn losses to insects have more than tripled, from 3.5 percent in 1945 to 12 percent today," Pimental told the chemical society meeting. The insect losses may be going unnoticed because corn crop yields are up, thanks to greater use of fertilizers and water, as well as high-yielding hybrid corn varieties, he noted.

The Cornell entomologist prescribed several choices in addition to crop rotations that he said are at least as effective as chemical pesticides for the control of some pests:

• Changing planting times. Pesticides need not be used on the Hessian fly, a destructive insect in wheat, for example, if that crop is planted after the fly has emerged and died off naturally.

• Increasing plant density. Planting more crop per acre can reduce consumption of crops by pests and result in a higher net yield.

• Biological control. Parasites, predators and other natural enemies of plant pests can be used to kill them. Some biological controls will return naturally with the decreased use of chemical pesticides, Pimental said, listing cotton as one example. The insecticide currently used to control the boll weevil also destroys the natural enemies of two other problem insects in cotton, the bollworm and the budworm, as that as many as five additional sprays must now be used to substitute for their predators.

Improving host plant resistance. Greater reliance on new crop varieties with genes that enable the plants to resist insects and plant pathogens can reduce the amount of pesticides.

• Better water management. Flooding rice fields, for example, controls some insects and weeds with minimum insecticides and herbicides.

• Tillage and cultivation. When crop residues are buried, not only are weeds controlled, but insects and plant pathogens from one crop are not as readily available to infect the next crop. Mechanical cultivation is also important for weed control.

• Trap crops. A few crop plants are planted early in the season to attract insect pests. Then the concentrated pests and plants are destroyed with a minimum of insecticide and are buried.

Safemark Sets $4.8 Million Sales Record

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — The Safemark Group Purchasing Program recorded a record $4.8 million in sales during fiscal year 1988-89, according to an announcement today by Joseph R. Patti, manager of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association Member Service, Inc., Safemark division. The new high exceeded the previous record of $3.9 million by more than 23 percent.

"We paid special attention to servicing and upgrading both new and existing dealers," Patti said, "While at the same time we added new suppliers and leased an additional 6,000 square feet to our warehouse facility.

"These efforts paid off for our customers," he said.

"Record sales are the results of a rapidly increasing dealer network and timely service to customers, Patti said. He reported that 56 dealers were added bringing the total to 307.

"By developing new product sources and streamlining our product delivery system, we believe is the reason for the dramatic increase in overall sales. "When a dealer needs a product for a customer, it's important the system can deliver it in a timely fashion. We make weekly delivers and in emergencies can deliver overnight to most dealers.

"Our Farmers' Association members continue to respond to the improved service with greater acceptance of our quality products," Patti said.

The Safemark Division sells in three states including Pennsylvania, New York and Connecticut. Its warehouse is located in Middletown and the corporate office is in Camp Hill.

The Safemark rear tractor tire, according to Patti, claimed 19 percent of the overall Pennsylvania market, and 15.8 percent of the implement and front tractor tire business. Safemark has 19.5 percent of the Pennsylvania baler twine market.

Tires are the major portion of Safemark's business with 65 percent of its sales in tires; 11 percent in batteries; 12 percent in twine and 12 percent in an array of products.

The Safemark Group Purchasing program is a service to the member program of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association.

Get more crop with the best in self-propelled harvesting.

If you custom harvest as well as chop your own forage, a self-propelled harvester like the Model 1915 can help you harvest more crop at peak quality. The fuel-efficient 270-horsepower diesel engine and the 24-inch, 12-knife cutterhead give you high-capacity day-in and day-out harvesting. And an interchangeable crophead system features a one-auger base feed system that lets you mount either a four- or five-row cornhead or a Super-Sweep windrow pickup.

Stop in today and let us show you the other features of this Whopper-Chopper. Or better yet, let's set up a time to demonstrate this harvester in your own field.

Speeds range from 1.8 to 19 mph. And there are seven in the crucial three to eight mph range. What's more you can get a MAGNUM Tractor with more powershift speeds under three mph than anyone else, thanks to the industry's only full powershift creeper transmission.

You can powershift to higher productivity with a Case IH MAGNUM Tractor 130–195 PTO hp

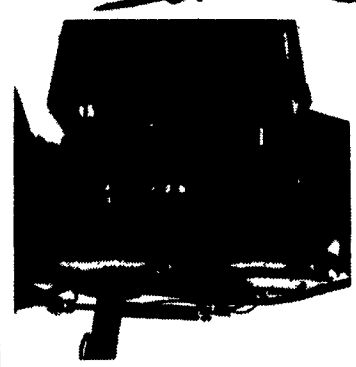
CASE IH BALE PROCESSOR ON SALE AT BINKLEY & HURST BROS. NOW!

BALE PROCESSOR



Don't Miss A Super Deal On This Show Demonstration!

IDEAL WORKMATE FOR TRACTORS WITH 50 TO 150 HP
Low horsepower requirements make this bale processor well suited to nearly any size of operation. It's recommended for 50 to 150 hp tractors with 1,000 rpm PTO. The tractor must also be equipped with dual remote cylinder outlets, and a third remote if the processor is equipped with a moveable conveyor.
The 8610 Bale Processor handles and processes big round bales with amazing ease and simplicity. It's strictly a one-man operation.
The 8610 efficiently handles all types of crops, in bales up to six-and-one-half feet in diameter. It shreds the material into edible and palatable lengths, depending on the crop and conditions, to fit most every type of livestock feeding operation.

TUB TILTS 90 DEGREES FOR FAST, EASY BALE PICKUP
From the tractor seat, the operator tilts the tub hydraulically to 90 degrees for picking up a bale. Visibility is good when loading since there's an opening in the tub floor. Once the bale is engaged, the operator simply raises the tub again hydraulically to upright position

FEEDING IS THOROUGH AND UTILIZES BALE WEIGHT
Feeding is thorough and uniform due to the rotating tub, 14 fixed, reversible shredding knives, and the weight of the bale forcing the crop down onto the rotor. There's no fighting the bale's weight as with some other processors

THE 8610 PROCESSING CAPACITY IS OUTSTANDING FOR ONE OPERATOR
Actual field operations show it's possible for one man to feed bales at a rate of 4 to 6 minutes per bale and process 8 to 10 bales per hour. Those figures, of course, depend on the crop and conditions operated in.

BUNK FEEDS, RANGE FEEDS AND BLOWS BEDDING
The 8610 is regularly equipped with a discharge chute for feeding on the open range or into bunks up to 36 inches high. Attachments include a fixed conveyor for feeding into bunks up to 32 inches or a moveable conveyor for bunks up to 60 inches high. This processor is also ideal for range feeding and will blow straw as far as 15 feet for livestock bedding

20-PLUS YEARS of disc building experience.

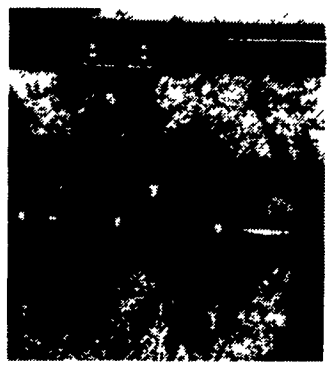
SUNFLOWER provides the quality you demand when selecting a disc.

Dual Scrapers

Every Sunflower disc is equipped with adjustable dual scrapers at the gang hangers. The dual scraper keeps each disc blade clean and deflects all trash downward, thus eliminating plugging in the hanger areas. The rigid hanger shown above is available on all Sunflower discs.

Hub and Wheels

All hub assemblies are equipped with grease zerks and triple-lip seals. The seals cannot be damaged while performing daily greasing requirements. Heavy-duty wheels on every model have valve stem protection and feature large flotation tires. Up to 2¼ " diameter spindles feature high capacity bearings capable of handling these heavy discs at high transport speeds.



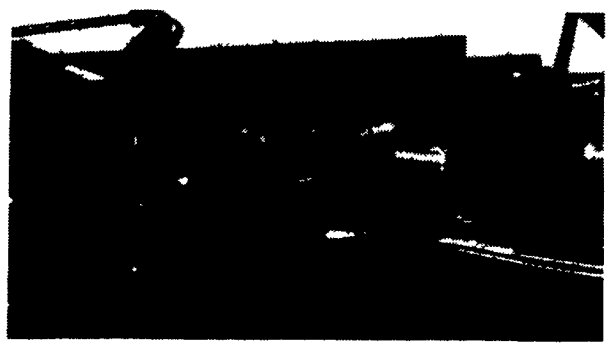
Precision Spools, Shafts and Conservation Blades

Disc blade spacing of 7½ ", 8½ " and 9½ "* are available, allowing you to select the spacing that best suits your farming operation. Every spool is precision machined providing a perfect fit between spool and disc blade, resulting in smooth, free turning gangs. High-strength 1¾ " diameter stress proof gang shafts and factory assembled gangs are torque hydraulically up to 1,200 pound. This results in a disc equipped with gangs that will provide thousands of trouble free acres. Optional conservation blades feature less concavity which means they'll reduce compaction, permit deeper penetration with less weight, require less horsepower and provide better leveling action, even at higher speeds. We think these blades come closer to meeting todays' conservation standards than anything on the market and we guarantee you'll be satisfied with their performance. Choose from 21.65" and 23.62" diameters and thicknesses of ¼ " or gauge.

* 9½ " blade spacing not available on 1200 Series.

C-Flex® Bearing Standard

A Sunflower exclusive — adds a new dimension to the word flexibility. C-Flex™ bearing standards absorb disc gang shock created by stumps or rocks. Bearing, spool and disc blade life is extended with C-Flex™. A bonus feature is C-Flex's ability to clear trash better than conventional rigid standards. All of these features result in reduced downtime.



Self-Leveling Hitch

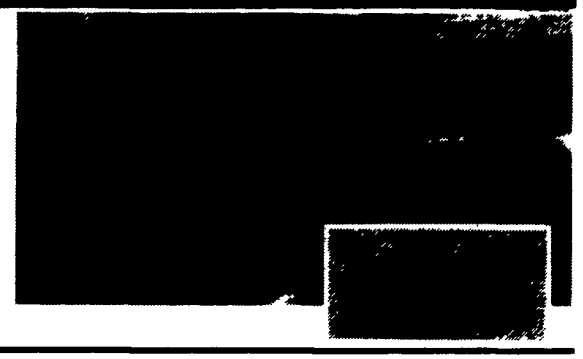
Level the disc frame from front to rear with Sunflower's unique self-leveling hitch. This positive adjustment maintains a preselected setting regardless of the tillage depth and features a pair of heavy compression springs that absorb shock allowing the required amount of movement as ditches, terraces and rough terrain are crossed.

Lubrication Points

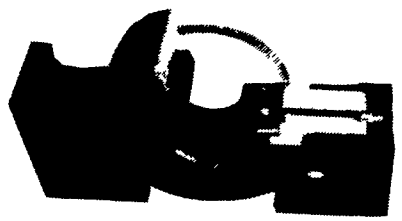
As illustrated by a hinge joint on the 1200 Series disc, all potential wear points on Sunflower discs are equipped with grease zerks for lubrication and increased life of the product.

Durable Lift Casting

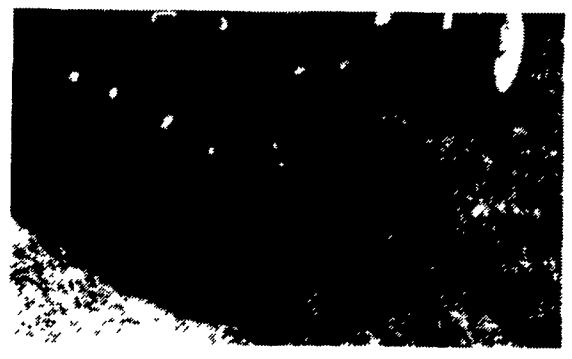
Heavy-duty 5½ " diameter rockshafts are held in place with replaceable ductile cast iron bearings that minimize wear between rockshaft and casting. Every rockshaft bearing features x-grooved top castings that allow grease to flow over the entire bearing surface for increased life.



3 Year Warranty on Trunnion Bearings



The trunnion bearing design provides positive alignment, eliminates wear between the bearing cartridge and housing and ensures positive lubrication. Twin triple-lip seals and metal shield washers prevent dirt contamination to the inner workings of this regreasable long-life bearing. The outstanding seal protection reduces wear, preventing premature bearing failure. Sunflower offers the finest warranty in the industry — 3 years. If the bearing fails within a three year period for any reason other than customer negligence or product abuse, Sunflower provides free bearing replacements. Trunnion bearings are standard equipment with your choice of C-Flex™ hangers or trim line rigid hangers on all Sunflower disc gangs.



Tapered Rear Gangs

Another long-time feature on Sunflower discs are tapered rear gangs. This feature promotes level, ridge-free discing. The precisely engineered preset gang angle assures that all soil is thrown outward by the front gangs will be returned by the rear gangs. Unlike solid furrow-filler blades, Sunflower's three-sided blade on each rear corner eliminates a continuous furrow and prevents water erosion on rolling ground.

Gauge Wheels

A trademark on all flexible Sunflower discs is front mounted gauge wheels. This important feature prevents the front gangs of the wing frame from gouging, buckling or cutting deeper than the other gangs, promoting a level, ridge or furrow-free field. The heavy-duty gauge wheel features a 5-bolt hut and 8.00x10 ply tire and tube.

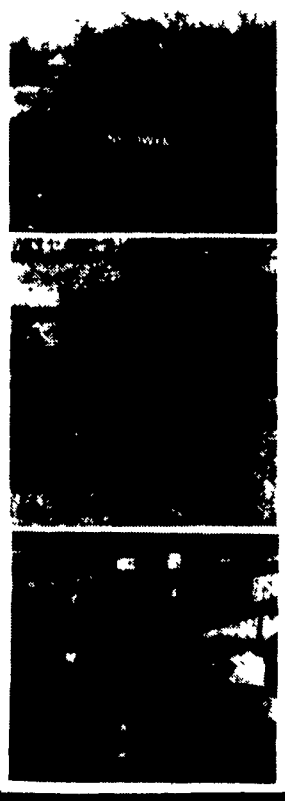
MODEL 4310 SUNFLOWER DISC-RIPPER

A hydraulically controlled 3-point hitch allows independent depth control of disc and ripper. Depth adjustments can be made on the go - it's simple, easy.

Walking tandems on the Disc-Ripper are superior to single wheels or conventional duals because they conform to uneven ground.

Sunflower's parabolic ripper shank features a lifting action, drawing the implement downward and shattering the subsoil.



The unique leveling system is similar to those used on conventional discs, permitting simple front-to-rear adjustments for different drawbar heights. Once adjusted, the machine will remain level when lifted from transport to field position.

The heavy-duty Model 4310 tongue is constructed of 4"x6" tubing, fastened to the machine by 1½" pins and features a 4" wide clevis. The clevis pivots on a 1½" bolt and is equipped with a hardened wear bushing to eliminate hitch pin wear. There is also an additional tongue jack mount allowing jack storage during field operation.

The disc gang cutting angle is adjustable with settings of 14°, 17° and 20°. The selected angle is maintained by a positive lock that prevents the heavy 4"x5" rectangular gang bar from moving. Sunflower's wide disc main frame provides outstanding gang-bar support and allows wide wheel placement for unmatched stability during operation.

Sunflower C-Flex™ Bearing hangers with trunnion-style bearings and stress-proof alloy steel 1¾" gang shafts provide an unbeatable combination. The 1"x3" C-Flex™ hanger absorbs shock normally transferred to gang bearings. As the C-Flex™ hanger moves, the entire trunnion-style bearing automatically aligns, eliminating wear between the bearing and housing (as with conventional gang bearings). Bearings are triple sealed and have steel washers to protect the seal.

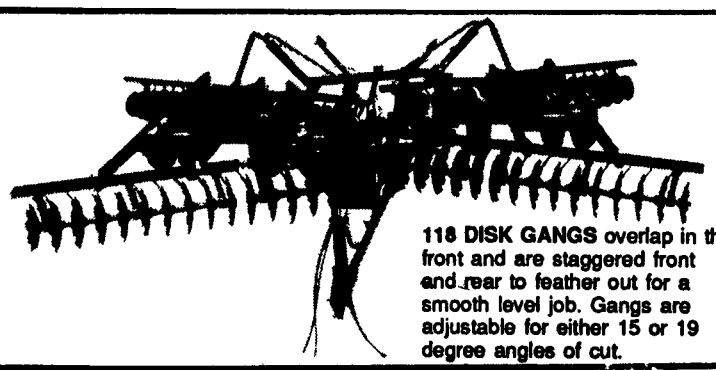
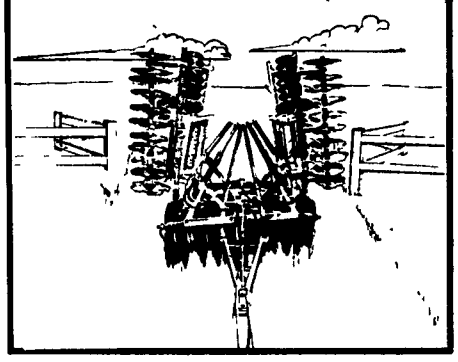
ATHENS

MODEL 118 DOUBLE OFFSET DISK



118 DISK GANGS overlap in the front and are staggered front and rear to feather out for a smooth level job. Gangs are adjustable for either 15 or 19 degree angles of cut.

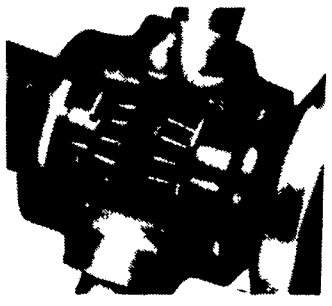
118 NARROW TRANSPORT WIDTH 11'4"



SPRING BEARING HANGERS with QUADRASEAL Double row Tapered roller bearings are standard on the 118. This heavy duty 1"x2" Spring bearing hanger provides maximum strength with maximum flexibility, which reduces downtime. QUADRASEAL Tapered bearings are Trunion mouted to the spring bearing hangers to allow the gang to flex freely without undue stress being placed on the Gang axle.

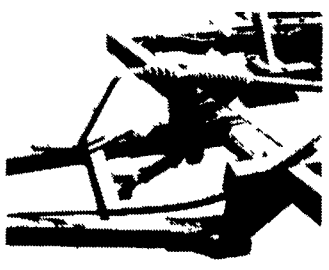
TAPERED DISKS—COVER DISKS The 118 has Triple tapered disks on the outside rear gangs and a single taper on the outside front gangs. These gangs provide for a smooth, level, ridge free job. Standard equipment on 118.

118 HEAVY-DUTY SCRAPERS. The 118 is equipped with heavy-duty Scraper Arms and 3/16" x 5" Blades. Athens Scrapers are fully adjustable and provide excellent Disk cleaning and trash clearance. Heavy-duty Scrapers are standard equipment on all 118 models.



THE QUADRASEAL® double-row tapered roller Bearings provide the most capacity in the industry. With this extra capacity, the probability of overloading.. even when disking at maximum angle... is virtually eliminated. The double-row Bearing has a triple-lip Seal that runs on a hardened, polished surface and has a heavy steel seal-protecting Washer to protect the seal from damage due to wire and trash. Between the steel Washer and the Seal is a cavity filled with grease... an additional sealing element against dirt.

QUADRASEAL WHEEL HUBS are an exclusive ATHENS PLOW design for increased Bearing life and reduction of downtime. Our QUADRASEAL Wheel Hubs offer maximum protection from dirt and trash by combining a triple lip seal with a press fitted external trash flinger. The QUADRASEAL Bearings give added bearing life.



118 LEVELING SYSTEM keeps the Frame level in the field and in transport. After hitching the reversible Clevis to the tractor, a Turnbuckle adjusts the Tongue position to level the Disk Frame in transport. In the field, a Leveling Screw that connects the Tongue to the Wheel Carriages is adjusted for field conditions and disking speed desired. After initial adjustment, the 118 remains level while being lifted and lowered. A Turnbuckle connects the Wheel Carriage for precise side-to-side leveling.

Over the past twelve years the Case IH axial-flow combines have proven themselves to be more productive than the combines previously owned by our customers. 1. Every new combine Hoober sells is expertly predelivered and started in the field by a professional combine mechanic; experienced in setting and adjusting for all common crops.
2. Hoober's professional combine mechanics drive fully equipped combine service trucks, stocked with commonly used wearing parts. When called to service or repair an axial-flow combine, they carry with them the tools and equipment to do the job and get you back to the field fast.
3. Hoober's Parts Department has the largest combine parts inventory in the East. Daily pick-ups at the Case IH Parts depot help to provide fast emergency parts availability. Hoober's expert combine PARTS service provides you minimum downtime and maximum productivity.

FACT: BIG JIM BEATS BOTTOM UNLOADERS COLD!

The Jamesway Big Jim system unloads silage from the top, then discharges it down a big preformed center hole and out the bottom. Result: You can store high moisture silage—with more total feed value than low moisture silage—without cold weather worries. And without the big price tag of oxygen-limiting, bottom-unloading systems. See us soon for details.

Stressfighter.®

To Keep Your Cattle Up and Running.

Every time you upset your cattle's daily routine, they suffer stress. Weaning, shipping, receiving—all of these activities contribute to appetite and weight loss. Which means you lose profits.

But with the Master Mix® Stressfighter program, you can battle the devastating effects of cattle stress.

Specially formulated after years of research, Stressfighter feeds contain a palatable mixture of select roughages, proteins and energy to encourage healthy gains. And since stressed cattle often lose vital nutrients, Master Mix adds extra fortification of niacin and B-vitamins to Stressfighter feeds to return your calves to top condition.

Cattlemen across the country credit the Master Mix Stressfighter program for keeping their cattle "up and running." You can, too. Contact us for more information.

Denver Sheep Competition Surprises Winners

BY LOU ANN GOOD

DENVER (Lancaster Co.) — After four years of sheep showing, Juanita Shirk, Narvon, hit the big time at the Denver Sheep Show on Thursday, September 14. Her 129-pound Suffolk impressed judge Bill MacCauley so much that she won the coveted, grand champion market lamb trophy.

"It's a big surprise," the 17-year-old, daughter of Wesley and Jane Shirk, said. "I thought it looked like a good lamb, but I never expected anything like this."

The prize lamb had been purchased at Leesport Market by Juanita's grandfather. The champion will be sold at the Lancaster 4-H Livestock Roundup in New Holland.

The Denver sheep competition also awarded Jeff Martin, East Earl, spectacular succcess. The 18-year-old sweep titles in top showmanship, champion ewe and reserve champion market lamb.

Jeff, the 18-year-old son of John and Marilyn Martin, was thrilled that his 11 years of sheep showing paid off so handsomely.

Martin exhibited one of his crossbreeds from a flock of 62. He is a member of the Garden Spot High School FFA class of '89.

Reserve showmanship honors went to Joyce Heffner of Fleetwood. Joyce is the 15-year-old daughter of Wilson and Mary Heffner.

Fourteen-year-old Peter Hoffines of Marietta made an impressive showing with his 155-pound Hampshire ram. "Nitro" took the grand champion ram award for the Donegal Middle School 4-H'er.

The reserve champion ram title went to Mark Tracy of Elizabethtown.

All in one evening at Denver Fair sheep competition, Jeff Martin of East Earl took top showmanship honors, exhibited both the grand champion ewe and the reserve champion market lamb. He is shown with Linette Ansel, Denver Fair Queen, and with the sheep show judge, Bill MacCauley of Atglen.

Top honors in the market lamb division went to Juanita Shirk of Garden Spot High School FFA. Juanita, who has been showing for four years, claimed her first major win with a heavyweight Suffolk at the Denver Fair. Linette Ansel, Denver Fair Queen, presented the award.

In his fourth year of sheep showing, Peter Hoffines of Marietta captured the grand champion ram trophy with one of his 12 Hampshires at the Denver Fair. Bill MacCauley, sheep show judge and Linette Ansel, Denver Fair Queen stand beside Peter.

RECORDS

Every swine producer has heard since day one how important records are. They help you recognize weak spots in the operation. And just as important, they help you make decisions. Tough to argue with any of that.

But when the sows have the watering system disassembled, or the tractor and manure tank are up to the axles, or you're working 15 hours a day and just plain can't get it all done—it's tough to write everything down, and then try to reflect on what it all means.

So records don't get much attention, understandably. Let's look at this business of recording information from the swine enterprise and decide what's really important, and what you can do without. These comments are directed to the commercial producer. The seedstock producer will have a lot more numbers to keep track of.

Record systems come in all shapes and sizes, and with a variety of bells and whistles. You can record and summarize everything by hand. You can do the same thing on a personal computer. Or you can subscribe to a service. The point is to choose what works for you. Don't record a thing that you won't use or that your banker won't need.

I group records into three categories—inventory, financial records and production records. Some would argue that anything you inventory could be grouped into either financial or production records. But I choose to keep it separate to emphasize the importance of taking a "head count" on a regular basis.

INVENTORY

How often? Once a month is nice. Twice a year is tolerable. Once a year is the bare minimum. Whatever interval you select, make summaries for all the records at the same time.

•Pigs. Most operations have their pigs grouped, usually nursing pigs, nursery, grower, finisher, gestation and lactation. Whatever these groups are for your operation, they should be the same for inventory. Taking inventory means several things. First, count the pigs, estimate their weight and put a value or price on each category. Second, summarize how many, at what weight, and at what price you sold pigs in every group since the last inventory. Third, add up the same totals for purchases (gilts moved from the finishing floor to the breeding house could be lumped into this category, or they could simply listed as pigs moved into the breeding herd). Finally, make similar summaries for death losses.

•Feed. Feed can be grouped just like pigs. And with few exceptions, these will the same categories used for the pigs, nursery, grower, etc. Record what you have in storage and what you purchased. If you grind and mix your own feed, you'll have to inventory the ingredients too. All this must be done at the same time you count the pigs.

•Supplies. Supplies can be inventoried when your doing the rest of the enterprise. But since most supplies are far less valuable than the pigs or the feed, it would be acceptable for many operations to just tally up theseexpenses and not worry about what you have on hand.

FINANCIAL RECORDS

If you've recorded all the inventory information listed above, you've got most of the financial work done. All you have left is a few expenses to write down. These include interest on operating capital, labor, veterinary and medical, utilities, truck and tractor, building depreciation (or loan payment), insurance and taxes, etc. It's vital that all expenses be recorded. But deciding how to group these expenses should be an individual decision. By putting several items into one category, a few numbers may lose some meaning, but it at least they'll get written down.

Pork Prose

PRODUCTION RECORDS

•Breeding Records. Two items that really count: which sows got bred and when. If farrowing is continuous and sows from different stages of gestation are housed together, then you're pretty much locked into sow identification. Otherwise you won't know who was bred when, and more importantly you won't know how many.

If your sows are grouped, things get a lot simpler. You can simply mark the pen with the breeding date. So movement, vaccinations, worming, etc., are done on a group basis. One exception to this of course, is if you're using Lutalyse to control farrowing. In that case you need precise breeding dates for every sow.

Pregnancy checking, another practice for the breeding herd, is important for obvious reasons. If you go one step further and write the numbers down, you can calculate the conception rate.

•Farrowing Records. Number of sows farrowed, number born live, number born dead, and the number weaned are the vital numbers. Weaning weight can be useful. But for most commercial producers it doesn't need to be recorded for every group. The same can be said for birth weight.

The one thing that's not an absolute necessity is the individual sow record. Yes, you can keep track of individual sow performance for making genetic selection. But keep several things in mind: 1) reproductive traits have a low heritability, so progress is slow; 2) you need at least three litters to accurately assess the sow's ability; 3) genetic improvement (even for mothering ability) can be achieved a lot faster and with a lot less effort by selecting the right boars.

One evaluation that many producers are finding useful, and pretty much requires individual sow records, is parity analysis. This is the average performance for first litter sows, second litter sows, etc. This enables a producer to look for things like second litter depression or average parity in the herd, and taking corrective action like delaying the breeding time for first litter sows, or changing the cull rate on sows. But if the inclination is to keep track of as little as possible, a lot of items outrank parity analysis in importance.

So for records that are a must, these are pretty much it. Additional production records obviously provide more information. And when used properly, they make for wiser decisions. But for the producer who has trouble finding enough hours in the day, these few essential numbers can offer a wealth of information.

Once it's written down, then what? Use the records to evaluate your efficiency. Each of the averages or ratios listed below can tell if things are going right or wrong, and they can often tell you where to look for the problem.

MEASURES OF EFFICIENCY

Farrowing Performance— •Average number born live: Goal - 10 or more/litter.

•Average number born dead: Goal - less than .8/litter.

•Average number weaned: Goal - 9 or more/litter.

•Litters/sow per year: Goal: between 2 and 2.4, depending on lactation length.

Breeding Performance— •1st service conception rate: No. sows checked pregnant/number mated per group. Goal - 90%.

•Farrowing rate: No. sows farrowed/number mated per group. Goal - 85%.

•Overall Reproductive Efficiency 22HD Pigs/sow/year: No. pigs sold per year/average sow inventory. Goal - 19.

Scheduling Efficiency Farrowing capacity—No. litters farrowed/potential litters for your farrowing house in given period. Goal - 100%. This is probably a measure of manager efficiency as much as reproductive efficiency. Maintain this at 100% (or more), all the other buildings stay full, and the overhead cost per pig is low.

Death Loss—A rough estimation of death rate

•No. died per production unit/average inventory.

•Sows: Goal - less than 2%.

•Preweaning: Goal - less than 10%

•Nursery: Goal - less than 2%.

•Grower-Finish: Goal - less than 2%.

Feed Efficiency—Total herd feed efficiency = lbs feed used/lbs pork sold for a unit time.

•Farrow to finish: Goal - less than 3.75.

•Farrow to feeder pig: Goal - less than 4.25.

•Feeder to finish: Goal less than 3.5.

Feed efficiency can also be calculated for individual production units (nursery, grower, finisher), but accurate pig and feed inventories are needed as well as number moved. Without exact weights, this calculation is only an estimate.

Measures of profit—No goals listed here since numbers vary greatly with market prices. Each can be calculated for a given inventory period, but they probably reflect the true picture when calculated on an annual basis.

•Average price per pound.

•Feed cost/lb of pork sold.

•Net profit per pig.

•Net profit per sow.

SUMMARY

1. Keeping inventory, financial and production records can provide you with a lot of information that can pay dividends in terms of recognizing weak spots and making sound decisions.

2. The records listed here should be considered a minimum for the commercial producer. Additional information (sow performance for example) is essential for the seedstock producer.

Fall Is Best Time For Soil Sampling

ATLANTA, GA — Soil sampling can be done at any time, but there are several advantages for sampling in the fall after harvest.

Dry soil conditions in the fall are favorable for collection of samples and allow a better job of collecting samples at uniform depths.

After harvest is a good time to review the 1989 production season and plan ahead for 1990. Taking soil samples in the fall will allow you to have 1990 fertilizer recommendations available for crop production planning. If you double crop wheat-soybeans or canola-soybeans, it is a good practice to apply all needed phosphate and potash for both crops ahead of the fall planted crop. That makes it necessary to sample those fields just prior to or immediately after soybean harvest.

Fall soil sampling allows you to avoid the spring rush. Important spring activities, including fertilizer application, herbicide application and planting, mean that a number of essential jobs must be carried out in a short time. When time runs out and something has to go unfinished, soil sampling is most often the victim. Sample in the fall when there is more time and the information will be ready for use when you need it.

Spring sampling can mean delays in receiving the lab reports. Remember that soil testing labs are very busy in the spring. A frequent complaint is that it takes too long to get results back and valuable time is lost. Citing a recent example, the Auburn University soil testing lab tested 70,000 soil samples in one year. Of that total 37,000 samples were analyzed in three months: January, February and March. Other labs have similar busy times in the spring; you can avoid the rush with fall sampling and analysis.

Research in several states has indicated that fall samples are just as accurate as samples taken in any other season. Agronomically, fall is a good time to sample.

Research has also shown that it is agronomically sound to apply needed phosphate and potash for spring planted crops in the fall. If soil sampling and analysis is completed in the fall, the results can be used to guide applications of phosphate and potash and save valuable time in the spring. Lime can be applied at any time of the year, but fall is an excellent season for liming. Fall application allows the lime to react and raise the soil pH before the crop is planted in the spring.

It all adds up: fall is a good time for taking soil samples. Use your time effectively through fall soil sampling and early planning.

Make plans now to soil sample this fall.

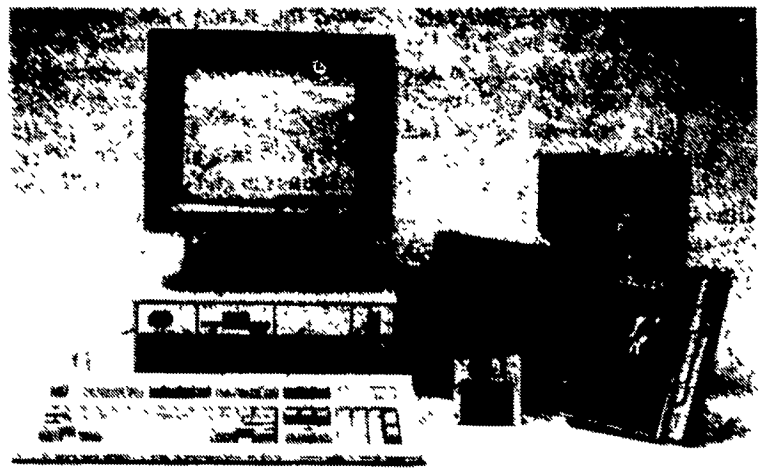
Alfa-Laval Agri Introduces Improved Software



HerdMaster Galaxy, an updated version of HerdMaster, allows users to design their own output reports and interface with third-party software.

KANSAS CITY, MO — Alfa-Laval Agri Inc., a dairy equipment and supply company, introduces HerdMaster® Galaxy, an updated version of its HerdMaster software.

According to J. Mark Juett, national product manager for feeding and herd management, Galaxy is more fully integrated, more powerful and easier to use than the original HerdMaster program.

"This is a continuation of product improvement," Juett said. "We took a good product, listened to our customers, and changed and improved the product to better meet their needs."

With Galaxy, users will be able to design their own output reports and interface with third-party software. The base module of the Galaxy program includes user-defined file export, making computer links to DHIA available soon on a regional basis.

The new system virtually eliminates dual entries, Juett said. For instance, if a dairyman treats a cow with antibiotics, thereby making milk unsuitable for human consumption, he simply enters the notation in his veterinary records and the program automatically sends the information to other pertinent records such as milk meters in the parlor.

HerdMaster® Galaxy, a three-module system, incorporates several important features of the original HerdMaster software.

The base module has all the capabilities of the former Update, Herd, Heifer, Manual Milk Recording, and Work programs, and most of the capabilities of Herd History built into it, Juett commented. Another important addition, a communication package, will allow dairymen to interface to De Laval's RationMaster® II feeding and ParlorMaster milk yield recording systems.

Galaxy is available now, and current users will have the option to upgrade at a minimal charge. Users who have a service agreement with Alfa-Laval automatically will receive the new software at no cost.

"It's free and you don't even have to request it. We'll do it for you," he said. Users who have not purchased a service agreement will pay a small fee for the Galaxy upgrade program.

Galaxy hardware requirements include: 640K RAM, 10-20 MB hard disk, DOS 2.1 or higher, and a serial port for external communication interfaces.

Alfa-Laval Agri Inc. is the world's largest dairy supplier. The company's nationwide network of more than 300 certified De Laval dealers is available to serve the needs of U.S. dairy farmers.

Straw Can Be Baled Behind A Rotary Gleaner Combine

Straw left by rotary combines can be baled as long as farmers lower the chopper concave and remove the straw spreader so the straw drops in a windrow behind the combine.

NORCROSS, GA — Contrary to a widespread misconception, you can bale straw behind a rotary Gleaner combine, says John Hyer, Gleaner combine product manager for Deutz-Allis Corporation.

"Many livestock and grain producers would like to join the growing movement toward rotary harvesting technology," Hyer says. "But they're sticking with a conventional combine because they believe straw left by rotary combines is too short for baling."

That's an old farmer's tale that's been disproven time after time in Gleaner combine field demonstrations. "We've followed new R-Series combines with tractors pulling square and round balers and found all you have to do is lower the chopper concave and remove the straw spreader so the straw drops in a windrow behind the combine."

The open cage design and channelled helicals of the R40 and R50 models make them best suited to windrowing straw, Hyer says, but straw can be baled behind the larger R60 and R70 combines as well. "You can't beat rotary Gleaner combines for harvesting capacity and quality of grain sample," Hyer says. "All producers owe it to themselves to take advantage of rotary combine performance."

Poultry Diagnostic Labs Protect Industry, Public

When avian influenza was reintroduced into Pennsylvania in late 1985, it was the Penn State Poultry Diagnostic Lab that rapidly diagnosed the first case. The on-going statewide avian influenza surveillance program helped to provide assurance that this was the first case. The source of virus was shown to be dirty crates brought in by a hauler from an out-of-state live bird market. A rapid response by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture prevented a repeat of the 1983-'84 epidemic in which more than 16 million birds were killed.

Whether helping to protect the state's second-largest agricultural industry from introduction and spread of devastating diseases or responding to flock health concerns of small to large flock owners, Pennsylvania's poultry diagnostic laboratories offer a wide variety of services that protect both the industry and the public.

There are five laboratories that receive complete or partial financial support from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Additional support is derived from the universities and modest fees for some services. The laboratories—their locations and phone numbers are: PA Dept. of Agr., Summerdale 717/787-8808; Penn State, Dept. of Vet. Sci. 814/863-0837; Univ. of PA, School of Vet. Med. New Bolton Center, Kennett Square 215/444-4282; Dr. Wilson Miller, Rohrestown 717/393-7016; Delaware Valley College, Doylestown 215/345-1500.

Collectively the above laboratories provide the following functions:

- conduct the exams and tests necessary to assist in diagnosing production or disease problems;
- provide the tests necessary for flocks to participate in all required national and state regulatory disease control programs, such as pullorum, MG, MS, export tests, etc.;
- cooperate in statewide disease surveillance programs, such as avian influenza, mycoplasma, exotic Newcastle, and Salmonella programs;
- make available blood testing used in disease prevention programs, such as profiling for bronchitis, Newcastle, reo, IBD, etc.;
- perform tests necessary to protect public health, such as chlamydiosis (Psittacosis) and Salmonella enteritidis etc.; and
- are used as a source of material for teaching and research; may provide initial observations and information that leads to solution or further research on some new or complex disease problem.

The effectiveness of the labs in helping to protect the industry and public depend in large part on those working with flock s remaining alert to problems that should have further work done in a diagnostic lab. For example, this occurred in 1985 when an alert poultry serviceman sent birds to the lab allowing for a rapid diagnosis of avian influenza.

For additional information on services or use of the state's laboratories contact the individual laboratory, the Avian Health Division, PA Dept. of Agr. 717/783-5301 or Penn State Cooperative Extension 814/863-0837.

ASI To Seek Legislation For Lamb Checkoff

DENVER, CO — The American Sheep Industry Association will seek enabling legislation for a lamb checkoff, after its board of directors gave the concept plan the go-ahead at the summer board meeting in Lexington, Ky., in mid August.

ASI now will draft legislation and seek a sponsor for the bill, which would be introduced in the fall months.

"We need to look into the future and be far-sighted enough to establish supplemental funding procedures for the sheep industry," said ASI president, Bill Schneemann of Big Lake, Texas.

"The mood of Congress is generally favorable towards this kind of a self-help program," said Jim Magagna, the Rock Springs, Wyo., rancher who serves as vice president of ASI and chairman of the national checkoff task force. "It is an excellent time to move forward on this issue."

While details of the checkoff proposal resulted in hours of debate, states lent strong support to the idea of a checkoff. Colorado Wool Growers President John Peroulis said, "If we don't help ourselves, nobody's going to help us."

His words were echoed by Chase Hibbard of Montana who said "We need it, and we need to move now. The mood in Washington is receptive to this kind of self-help program now, and we need to capitalize on that."

Enabling legislation would provide a legislative means to propose a checkoff to the industry at some point in the future. A two-thirds majority vote from the ASI board of directors would trigger the Secretary of Agriculture to develop the order and conduct a producer referendum. Passage of the referendum would start the checkoff.

At this time there is no specific time schedule for starting the checkoff.

A special task force appointed to look at the potential for a lamb checkoff recommended a plan calling for a $.35 checkoff at every sale of an animal. After lengthy debate on the merits of such a plan, the task force also will study the option of a one-time checkoff at a specified point of sale.

A section of the checkoff proposal that would have mandated a checkoff on imported lamb, both in carcass form and live, was soundly defeated by the board.

Agencies Get New Yardstick To Measure Nation's Soil Losses

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A new computer model for calculating the nation's soil losses was officially handed over to the federal agricultural agencies that will use it during a recent luncheon ceremony.

"The new model should help conservation agencies and farmers to control soil erosion in a more cost-effective way on America's farms, rangeland and forests," said R. Dean Plowman. He is administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service, which developed the Water Erosion Prediction Project (WEPP) model.

At the ceremony culminating a three-day WEPP team meeting, Plowman handed over computer disks containing the first phase of the WEPP model to USDA Soil Conservation Service chief Wilson Scaling and to representatives of USDA's Forest Service and the Department of the Interior's Bureau of Land Management. These agencies will conduct field tests and evaluations of the model.

The WEPP computer program mathematically simulates soil erosion caused by rainfall, snowmelt or irrigation. It can simulate erosion for anywhere from one storm to a period of several years. "It will largely replace the Universal Soil Loss Equation (USLE), used since the 1950s, which is less accurate under certain conditions and gives only average annual losses," Plowman said.

"We've packaged decades of research and soil survey data in an easy-to-use form," he said. "The latest data came from hundreds of simulated rainstorms at nearly a hundred sites across the country.

"We'll be working with the agencies to complete two more versions of the model, which will extend it to larger areas of the landscape where we can deal with stream channel erosion and sediment yield from watersheds."

SCS employees will use WEPP erosion estimates as the basis for helping farmers draw up and apply conservation plans to reduce erosion to tolerable levels, the same way they've used the USLE.

The 1985 farm bill gave added urgency to WEPP, by making some farmer assistance from USDA contingent on conservation plans on highly erodible land.

"Today's transfer," Plowman said, "marks the end of the first phase of a 10-year project that began in 1985. In the next phase, the agencies will test and refine the model for wide use after 1992. It should be in place nationwide by 1995 and should improve the conservation planning process," he said.

The ARS and the three user agencies are conducting the project in cooperation with seven land-grant universities. The U.S. Geological Survey of the Interior Department recently joined the project in an advisory capacity.

For the past two summers, teams of federal scientists traveled across the country with large rainfall simulators in the form of sprinklers that resemble horseless carousels, said Leonard J. Lane, project leader for the first phase of WEPP and an ARS hydrologist in Tucson, Ariz. Each sprinkler spins around and sprays water on test plots. The scientists used the sprinklers for experiments on cropland, rangeland and forestland to collect data on how different soils respond to rainfall, Lane said.

Many things came together to make WEPP feasible today, where it was not feasible 20 years ago, he said. "We have a better understanding of hydrologic and erosion processes and more complete soil survey data. And personal computers are affordable and widely accepted.

"While the USLE remains a powerful tool, it does have its limitations. It is not as good a predictor of erosion on rangeland or forest land as as it is on cropland. Its mathematical form won't allow it to represent hydrologic and erosion processes as we know them to occur, while those in WEPP do."

Wolf Reintroduction Hearing Held

The sheep industry was well represented at the Yellowstone Wolf Reintroduction hearing. Testimonies by producers provided facts that were not previously addressed by supporters of wolf reintroduction. Congressman Wayne Owens (D-UT), the bill's sponsor, is expected to come back with a compromise that would delist from endangered species list, wolves that leave the greater Yellowstone area, and would permit the killing of these delisted animals.

York Fair 4-H and FFA Dairy Champions

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — The show string of York 4-H'er Bridgette Boyer swept top honors at the York Fair 4-H Dairy Show Wednesday, September 13, taking all the Holstein champion and reserve rosettes and topping it off with the supreme champion title.

Boyer's 4-year-old Sunnybend Kitten Bootmaker bested her 2-year-old herdmate for the Holstein champion honors, and got the supreme nod over four other breed champion contenders. Sired by Paclamar Bootmaker, the champion is scored VG-86.

Reserve champion was Sunnybend Milkyway Harmony. Both are maternal descendants of Bridgette's first 4-H show animal, Sunnybend Dapples Black Star. Junior and reserve champion rosettes went to her summer yearling and junior yearling winners.

Bridgette recently began her freshman studies at Delaware Valley College, and was absent from the halter as her 4-H showring career draws to a close. She is the daughter of Tom and June Boyer, and a 10-year member of the Central Dairy Club.

GUERNSEY

Jenelle Boyer took three of the four honors in the Guernsey 4-H competition, winning the senior and grand champion title with her 4-year-old Golden Lock Fayette Tex Gretal. Junior and reserve junior ribbons went to her pair of homebred junior calves, a daughter and sister to the champion.

In the reserve senior and grand champion Guernsey slot was Kelly Morris, exhibiting her 3-year-old Beas Bonus Tinkerbell. At the July 4-H roundup, she had earned breed champion honors for the Milk and Money Dairy Club member. Kelly is the daughter of Bob and Bev Morris of Fawn Grove.

Other first-place wins in the Guernsey division went to Todd Morris exhibiting a senior calf, and Annie Rauhauser, with an intermediate yearling.

JERSEY

Annie Rauhauser's homebred Jersey earned the champion title in the Jersey runoffs, over the reserve placed entry of Jasin Doll.

Lilac-Spring Royal Chastity, a senior 2-year-old, took the purple rosette for the 15-year-old Dover 4-H'er. It marked Chastity's second championship of the show season. She won that title earlier at the county 4-H roundup. Annie is the daughter of Charles and Pat Rauhauser, and has been a member of the Central York Dairy Club for seven years.

Jasin Doll took the reserve senior and grand champion placing with his junior 2-year-old, Golden Yankees Sweetness. She had also taken the same placing at the July roundup for the 17-year-old Brodbecks 4-H member. Jasin, 17, is the son of Burnell and Joanne Doll, and a member of the Southwest Dairy Club.

Named the junior champion was the intermediate calf exhibited by Annie Rauhauser, over the reserve junior champion, a summer yearling, exhibited by Paul Rauhauser.

Also taking a blue ribbon in the Jersey intermediate yearling class was William Jenkins.

BROWN SWISS

Spring Grove 4-H'er Patrick Lucabaugh claimed the Brown Swiss championship with his senior 2-year-old Alert L Valine Rockey. In his second year of 4-H competition as a Southwest Dairy Club member, 10-year-old Patrick is the son of David and Norman Lucabaugh.

AYRSHIRE

Lack of experience was no deterrent to rookie 4-H'er Jason Stambaugh who exhibited his intermediate yearling Ayrshire all the way to the breed junior and grand championship. Ray-Knoll Liberators Belvedere took top honors for the 9-year-old son of Jeff and Diane Stambaugh of Spring Grove.

Reserve grand and junior champion title went to Shannon Doll of Brodbecks, with her senior calf, Ray-Knoll Johnny's Valerie.

Disaster Assistance Act Passed

YORK (York Co.) — "Congress has passed and the President has signed the Disaster Assistance Act of 1989, Pub L. 101-82, which provides a program of disaster payments for crops for the 1989 crop year," according to David S. Evans, chairperson of the York County ASC Committee. Evans a farmer near East Prospect said "All crops that were eligible for 1988 disaster payments shall be eligible for 1989".

The 1989 Act expands the definition of recognized disaster conditions to include damaging weather which includes, drought, hail, excessive moisture, freeze, tornado, hurricane or any combination thereof. Also, related conditions which include insect infestations, plant diseases, or the deterioration of a commodity as a result of damaging weather occurring before or during harvest.

Following are comparisons between 1988 and 1989:

Unchanged provisions:

1. Forgiveness of advance deficiency payments on participating crops in 1989.
2. The requirements for purchasing 1990 crop insurance for production losses greater than 65 percent.
3. No duplication of benefits between USDA agencies.
4. Compliance with Sodbuster provisions.

1989 Loss provisions for each category as follows:

1. Participating crops - 40%.
2. Sunflowers & Soybeans - 45%.
3. Non-participating and non-program crops - 50%.

Evans continued, "Payment rates and yields for non-program crops will be established by the Pennsylvania State ASC Committee using the immediately preceding five year period of 1984-1988."

"We probably won't have the details of Disaster Assistance for a few weeks," Evans said, "but there are some things producers can do to help make sure they get their benefits of any new legislation."

"For example, appraisals will be made when necessary to ASCS on damaged crops before they are destroyed or harvested to salvage for feed."

"Producers may have to leave representative strips for appraisals if they are unable to wait for an ASCS appraisal. A representative strip is 5 percent of the acreage in a field. Five Consecutive rows out of 100 meets this requirement provided they are uniformly spaced throughout the field and not on sides or ends of the field."

Showmanship contest

More than 40 4-H'ers and FFA'ers participated in the hotly contested livestock showmanship competition held during the Perry County Fair. Judge Mike Fournier, Bucks County Extension agent, noted the level of showmanship skills and ring confidence by the members as they guided their animals.

Champion 4-H beef showman honors went to Dee Curtis of Landisburg, while her sister Dawn captured reserve champion beef 4-H honors. The champion FFA beef showmanship title went to Amy Byers of Liverpool.

Jolita Stoltzfus was named the grand champion 4-H market goat showman with Venessa Williams of New Bloomfield took the reserve 4-H title. Brian Clouser and Cris Culwell took grand and reserve champion titles respectively in the FFA market goat showmanship contest.

Dee Curtis was selected as the grand champion 4-H and FFA sheep showman. Michael Montgomery captured the reserve champion honors in the 4-H division, and Mark Cauffman was the reserve champion in the FFA competition.

Champion 4-H swine showmanship honors went to Melanie Brookhart with Lisa Hinkel of Millerstown being named reserve grand champion 4-H swine showman. The FFA contest was won by Dee Curtis, while Melanie Brookhart came in second.

Dee Curtis, left, of Landisburg was the champion 4-H sheep showman, while Michael Montgomery was named the reserve champion.

Is this man cheating on his neighbors?

Let's consider what his neighbors are saying:

1 Joe thought he saw him test driving those new "Big Thinkers" from Massey-Ferguson the 115-hp* M-F 3630 and the 130-hp* M-F 3650 Datatronic ™/Autotronic ™ tractors Did he buy one and not tell them?

2 Pete heard him say his tractor automatically controls wheelslip for greater productivity Pete says you're cheating if you don't lift and lower implements yourself to prevent spinning out in tough spots.

3 He told Ron he hasn't had ringing ears and backaches since he got the "Silent Revolution" cab with deluxe, swivel seat and filtered, climate-controlled air. Ron says you have to breathe dust, brave icy winds and have hearing loss to be a real farmer.

4 He told John he saves time, fuel, seed, fertilizer and chemicals by using radar to measure his exact ground speed. Since getting his third speeding ticket, John says using any radar is cheating.

5 Every night, Bill hand-calculates his fuel efficiency, area worked and other performance figures. He says anyone who'd get an M-F Datatronic tractor to instantly display all these numbers is cheating

6 He told Jack his tractor has an "auto-pilot" to help operate the PTO, differential lock, implement depth and 4WD functions. Jack misunderstood him, and is now telling people that anyone who needs a "co-pilot" shouldn't be farming.

7 He told Tom that he should buy a new M-F 3600 Series tractor for excellent dealer service and the opportunity to join the exclusive MF Club, which offers special discounts on everything from filters to vacations Tom thinks this is too good to be true.

8 Peggy noticed he's wearing a new Massey-Ferguson digital wrist watch. He claims he got it free. She thinks he stole it.

Is this man cheating, or just smart?

Could a new M-F 3600 Series Autotronic/Datatronic tractor really give you all these advantages?

Stop in and find out.

Quality High At York Fair 4-H Sheep Shows

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Matt Trostle hauled home an armload of trophies from the York Fair's 4-H breeding sheep competition, taking top honors in both Hampshire and Southdown divisions.

The 11-year-old son of Ronald and Yvonne Trostle of Red Lion, Trostle has been helping show sheep almost since he could walk. In the Hampshire division, he took both champion and reserve ram and champion ewe honors, and he had all champion and reserve awards in the Southdown classes.

Reserve champion Hamp ewe was the entry of R. Jean Sherry of Thomasville. Jean, 15, made her debut on the 4-H sheep tanbark this year, after some eight years of 4-H experience in New Jersey. She is the daughter of Gail and Ray Sherry.

In the Suffolk contest, Julie Kern of York exhibited the champion ram. Champion ewe was exhibited by Mike Klinedinst of Stewartstown, while Mat Seller of Thomasville took the reserve champion honors.

Lisa Dehoff of Glen Rock and Drew Bankert of Red Lion traded top spots in the Natural Colored sheep division. Lisa had champion ram and reserve champion ewe, with Drew getting the nod for the champion ewe and reserve champion ram.

Border Leicester honors went to Jenelle Mancuso of Felton for her champion ewe. Carly Kelly showed both champion and reserve champion ewe in the Merino competition.

4-H market lamb show

To the delight of 4-H'ers Mike Klinedinst and Matt Trostle, the York Fair 4-H market lamb contest finished as a summer rerun—of last summer, that is.

For the second year running, 16-year-old Klinedinst finished at the top of the heated market lamb competition, claiming the champion honors with his homebred Hampshire-Dorset cross.

A firm believer in fitness and exercise for winning lambs, Klinedinst walked his champion a mile every day at the family's Stewartstown farm plus fed plenty of good hay and grain. Klinedinst's entries claimed championships in both the medium and light heavyweight classes.

In the reserve champion place was 10-year-old Red Lion 4-H'er Matt Trostle, who exhibited a home bred Hamp-Suffolk cross. Trostle exhibited both the champion and reserve in the heavyweight class.

Champion honors in the market lightweight class went to Tina Shaffer, with Mike Klinedinst exhibiting the reserve winner. Drew Bankert had reserve champions in both the medium and light heavyweight classes.

4-H sheep special events

In her rookie year as a sheep exhibitor, nine-year-old Tabitha Ebersole out showed competitors nearly twice her age to claim the York Fair's champion sheep showman title.

"My dad taught me how to set them up and where to put the legs," she said, explaining that she had been helping with the Ebersole's three-generation sheep-showing tradition since she was three years old.

"And, always watch the judge," she added, with emphasis on a showmanship tip obviously oft repeated by her parents Lynn and Steve Ebersole of York.

Finishing in the reserve champion slot, and also named champion fitter, was veteran shepherd Mike Klinedinst. Those two awards further swelled an impressive lineup of York Fair sheep awards taken over the weekend.

The reserve champion fitter wa Lisa Dehoff, who topped the 12-14 years division of the fitting-showmanship competition.

More than a dozen 4-H shepherds cleaned, clipped, carded, groomed, anhd otherwise readied for show lambs fresh off the pasture for the blocking and grooming contest. Competitors had only one hour to prepare untouched, untamed lambs for appearance before the judge.

That hour went much too quickly, according to Lory Funt of Wellsville, who felt her entry needed considerably more attention before being ring ready. Nevertheless, she earned the nod of judge Monte Chapel, Kentucky State University extension sheep specialist, for the champion blocking and grooming honors over reserve winner Lisa Dehoff.

Jean Sherry was named grand champion of the Shepherd's bred and owned class, a category that encompasses animal conformation, showring abililties, and management knowledge. It marked the first Shepherd's class competition for the 4-H'er.

A native of Reading, Rick was the 1936 Hort Show manager. He earned a bachelor's degree in horticulture from Penn State in 1937. He went on to earn his master's degree in 1938 and a doctorate in 1940, both from Harvard University. Shortly after earning his doctorate, he was hired as an instructor and geneticist at Davis and rose up through the academic ranks to full professor in 1955.

The recipient of at least 10 major national awards, Rick was elected to the prestigious National Academy of Sciences in 1967. DDA Calls For Alternative Crops, Marketing Research Proposals

DOVER, DE. — Creativity, ingenuity, feasibility. Those are the key ingredients being sought by the Delaware Department of Agriculture in projects submitted to its Alternate Crops/Marketing Research Program.

The research program, authorized for the second year in a row by the General Assembly, is designed to encourage agricultural diversification and to explore new, profitable methods of processing, packaging and marketing Delaware products.

"Delaware farmers will never be able to turn their backs on traditional crops like corn, wheat and soybeans that have sustained the state's agricultural industry for decades. But, as technology improves and consumer demand changes, the ag community is realizing it must generate new ideas in production and sales in order to keep the industry viable," said Bill Simmons, marketing manager for the Department of Agriculture.

Last year, the department distributed $50,000 among 12 projects, most on a matching fund basis with project sponsors.

Funded projects included studying aquaculture systems for crawfish and striped bass, growing seedless table grapes, exploring innovative packaging for honey, converting an old mill into a mixing and bagging facility for packaging birdseed and evaluating lupines and its derivatives as a new forage crop.

A total of $50,000 again will be offered this year for the program. Agribusinesses, food and agricultural product processors, nonprofit institutions, commodity associations and individuals are eligible to submit proposals.

The Department of Agriculture must receive proposals by 4:30 p.m., Oct. 31, 1989. Semi-finalists will be selected by Nov. 15. Complete proposals will be due by Dec. 8, and final selection will be made no later than Dec. 20.

For more information on how to apply for the Alternative Crops/Marketing Research Program, contact Bill Sammons at 1-800-282-8685 (New Castle and Sussex counties) or 736-4811.

Parletts Dominate York Fair Open Swine Breeding Show

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — After two days of swine class competition at the York Fair, the area around the James Parlett and Son's exhibit area was reflecting the color purple.

Jim and Gus Parlett claimed an impressive lineup of swine honors, taking all three supreme championship titles and sweeping top placings in at least three breeding divisions.

Judge Keith Baird, a Cambria County hog breeder, gave the nod for supreme market pair to the pair showed by John Eaton Jr. of Red Lion.

Hogs from the Parletts' noted Airville breeding and finishing operation bested competition in Chester White, Duroc, and Spotted classes. A Chester White earned the class and supreme market hog honors. The Parletts also took champion and reserve champion boar and gilt honors, while John Eaton Jr. of Red Lion exhibited the reserve champion Chester White barrow.

In the Duroc division, Parlett had champion boar and sow, which went on to take the supreme titles, and reserve sow and barrow. Exhibiting the champion barrow was Jay Acworth of Tori J Farms in New Oxford. Reserve boar honors went to Philip Stultz of New Oxford.

All Spotted champion rosettes went to the Parlett entries. The reserve champion boar was the entry of Larry Robinson fo Del'a. Steve Wherley of Brodbecks exhibited the reserve champion sow, while Ron Trostle showed the reserve champion barrow.

Russel and Arlie Combower of New Freedom swept the Berkshire division, claiming champion and reserve awards for boar, sow, and barrow classes.

Yorkshire champion and reserve ribbons all went to John Strawbridge. Strawbridge dominated the Hampshire show as well, taking most otp placings. Carolyn Thomas of Stewartstown exhibited the Hampshire reserve senior champion sow.

The Mummert family's Tunnel Hill Farms of Seven Valleys topped the Landrace competition, taking champion and reserve boar and sow honors. The champion barrow was exhibited by Tina Hedrick of Delta.

Gus Parlett added another champion ribbon to his successful York Fair stay with the champion Spotted boar.

Gus Parlett's Chester White entry earned the coveted supreme champion barrow award at the York Fair, from Cambria County hog breeder and show judge Keith Baird, center. Mike Rutter, left, made the presentation on behalf of the Fair's board.

John Strawbridge claimed all top Yorkshire honors including champion boar at the York Fair open swine classes.

John Eaton Jr. claimed supreme champion market pair titles. Handling the duo was Eaton's father John Eaton Sr.

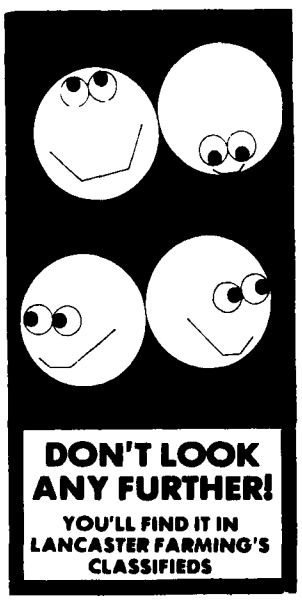
A plaque from Hoke Mills of York and Abbottstown was presented at the opening of the Pride of York hog sale to supreme boar exhibitor Gus Parlett. Making the presentation for the feed firm was Karen Frantz.



The champion Hampshire boar title went to the hog exhibited by John Strawbridge.

The York Fair supreme champion gilt title went to this female shown by Gus Parlett of James Parlett & Son.

Progress Made On Controlling Corn Pests

DeKALB, IL. — The European corn borer and corn rootworm have earned the reputation as the most damaging and perhaps the most difficult corn pests to control. "However, researchers are making progress to limit damage and economic losses," says Bob Streit, an agronomist with DeKalb-Pfizer Genetics.

He reports the majority of corn borer damage occurs when ears are not fully formed or are reduced in size due to either borer tunneling or reduced vascular system capacity. New research projects will help identify which pathogens are introduced into the plant during borer invasion and the times at which plants are most vulnerable to invasion. Strong disease resistance is vital in helping corn varieties resist the corn borer.

Several new breeding efforts are under way to help corn growers in the battle against the corn borer Streit adds. "The first is to integrate insect resistance into new corn varieties. To accomplish this new sources of resistance have been identified in the past few years for both first and second generation corn borer populations."

Two biotechnology efforts are also under way. Streit reports "through the use of a product called InCide, plants receive season-long protection from corn borers. An organism is injected into the seed which grows and spreads throughout the plant like a vaccine." The biopesticide has proven harmless to animals and humans, but toxic to the corn borer larvae.

The third corn borer research effort involves genetically altering hybrids so they will produce their own biopesticide without seed inoculation says Streit.

According to Streit, some interesting research is being done on new ways to control the corn rootworm. "The first is with scented baits laced with an insecticide. The emerging beetles are then attracted to the bait where they feed and are killed. The DeKalb-Pfizer agronomist explains if the surviving adult numbers are low enough, no rootworm insecticide is needed the next year.

InCide technology is also being researched to aid in rootworm control. "A strain of the bacteria Bacilus thuringiensis is known to be toxic to beetle larvae including rootworm larvae," says Streit.

Dr. Jon Tollefson of Iowa State University is perfecting a quick test for rootworm larvae dormancy. Currently tests require up to two years to determine if rootworm eggs will be dormant for months or years before hatching. Dr. Tollefson thinks that an economic third crop to help break the insect cycle would be a big help over many Midwest states where the rootworm problem is occurring.

Dr. Dan Palmer, an entomologist with Dekalb-Pfizer is also screening each of the company's inbreds and hybrids for tolerance to rootworms. "Dr. Palmer hopes to be able to rate each of the new hybrids for their ability to tolerate root feeding without suffering a yield loss. He is interested in only allowing those varieties with top productivity under all stresses to enter the marketplace."

Don't Forget To Add Coolant Conditioners To Tractors

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.)— Many tractor owners routinely check coolant in the fall to insure protection against freezing. But don't forget to add a coolant conditioner additive -- or change the coolant filter if your engine is so equipped. These filters contain conditioner chemicals which are absorbed by the coolant. Check the operator's manual for service intervals and specific details.

Whether it's added directly or through a filter, coolant conditioner gradually loses its strength and must be replaced. The conditioner helps combat two serious engine problems: block cylinder wall rust-through (also known as corrosion-erosion) and scale formation.

Corrosion (rusting) of the water jacket weakens the metal and increases erosion of the cylinder wall. This phenomenon can occur on engines with wet cylinder sleeves or parent bore blocks.

The erosion occurs when very high frequency vibrations of the cylinder wall cause the coolant to move away at the vibration point, causing a vacuum bubble to form. When the vacuum bubble collapses (implosion), the coolant flows into the void left by the bubble. This action has an eroding effect on the metal.

These implosions occur many time per second and, in time, can cause complete penetration of the cylinder wall. Coolant conditioners contain additives that coat the cylinder wall with a protective film to minimize the effects of the vacuum bubble implosion.

The conditioners also contain additives that reduce scale formation, to neutralize acidity and reduce foaming.

Coolant conditioners can be used in tractors that do not have factory-installed conditioner, but the cooling system should be thoroughly flushed before adding new antifreeze solution and the conditioners.

A premium-grade antifreeze formulated for use in diesel engines should be used, preferably one having no more than 0.1% silicate. Many antifreezes are for use in aluminum engines and have a high silicone content. In diesel engines, the excess silicates may cause a "silicate dropout" (appears as a gel) that restricts coolant flow and causes overheating.

So, to help insure satisfactory performance of the cooling system and to reduce the possibility of cylinder wall corrosion-erosion on your tractor, don't forget to add coolant conditioner or replace the filter regularly.

Other good maintenance practices include checking the water pump, fan belts and hoses for wear, cracking, and softness. The radiator core and grill screen must be kept clean for proper air flow and heat transfer.

Shreds stalks yet won't plug up!

The perfect tool for ridge and minimum till

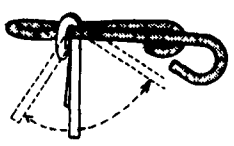
The Fuerst harrow cleans ridge tops, creating excellent seedbed. Unique "Spreading Action"® tines hug the soil at faster speeds to shred and evenly spread no-till stalks in the spring.

Dozens of uses:

The harrow used behind a disc or cultivator, incorporates herbicides in one pass. Used alone, it covers broadcasted seed, renovates, maintains pastures and more.

The harrow/cart (an optional harrow carrier as shown) follows tight turns, has folding wings for easy transport. Harrow and cart are available in 16 to 42 ft. widths.

"I believe the harrow works as good as a stalk shredder; it lifts and shatters the stalks and yet doesn't tear up the ground."
Roger Bommer -- Brookville, IN



Free swinging tines
Fuerst's free swinging "Spreading Action"® tines make it the ONLY harrow that can effectively incorporate and shed trash.

York Fair 4-H, FFA Members Compete In Swine Shows

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York CO.) — York Fair marked another successful hog show for veteran 4-H swine exhibitor Greg Bankert.

The 18-year-old Hanover hog producer topped more than 70 market hog entries to win the champion 4-H competition. His homebred Duroc, finished out on Bankert's own formulated feed mix, tipped the scale at 238 pounds. Bankert, the son of Roger and Darlene Bankert, has been a 4-H hog exhibitor for nine years.

Claiming the reserve champion 4-H market hog rosette was Jason Rankin of Abbotstown. Rankin purchased his winning 240-pound purebred Duroc entry from the Roger Bankert family. Regular exercise walks several times weekly were part of Jason's preparation of his pig for the competition.

Although the 14-year-old has been exhibiting hogs for three years, the win marked his first in the reserve champion slot.

In the FFA show, John Eaton Jr. of Red Lion claimed champion market hog honors. A Penn State student, Eaton is a member of the Red Lion FFA chapter. Taking the reserve champion FFA rosette was Gus Parlett, also a Red Lion FFA chapter member.

SWINE BREEDING

In the 4-H swine breeding show, Sarah Kitzmiller took all honors in the Berkshire breed. Chester White class ribbons and champions all went to Greg Bankert.

Competition heated in the Duroc breed show, with Kim Frantz of Seven Valleys claiming the champion sow award with her February gilt. Greg Bankert took the reserve champion sow honors with a March gilt.

Kelly Dutrey's lone Hampshire entry got the judge's nod for champion honors of the breed. Steve Wherley of Brodbecks dominated the Spotted hog classes to take both champion and reserve champion awards. Yorkshire honors went to Jimmy Neutzel of Felton.

Red Lion FFA'er Gus Parlett completely dominated three swine breeding shows in the FFA show. Parlett claimed all honors in Chester Whites, Durocs, and Spotteds.

John Eaton Jr. was the lone exhibitor and champion in the Yorkshire classes.

Dwight and Tina Hedrick shared the winning rosettes in the Landrace competition. Dwight earned champion honors with a February gilt over Tina's March gilt. Both are members of the Kennard-Dale FFA chapter.

Fitting and showmanship runoffs wrapped up with Brian Kunkle getting the nod from judge Keith Bard for the master fitter title. Selected as master showman was Mike Stermer.

Four-H swine showman and fitting honors were split between two 4-H'ers who topped their age categories. Jim Neutzel earned the champion showman award after besting six other competitors in his 8-11 years old division as well as intermediate champion Matt Seller and senior champion Greg Bankert.

The fitting winner was Joshua Hoffman of Dover, who topped his intermediate class and went on to beat junior winner Cindy Miller of York and senior winner Kris Miller of York.
